

Cruise missile ushers in new age of warfare

By James McCartney
Knight-Ridder Service

WASHINGTON — President Carter's decision to scrap the B1 means the end of the era of the manned bomber and the beginning of a new age in strategic warfare.

The computer-targeted, pilotless plane known as the cruise missile is replacing the manned strategic bomber.

And no one knows whether this new kind of warfare can be controlled, or whether a whole new cycle of the arms race lies ahead.

Many experts believe it does. Carter has given a boost to one kind of cruise missile — an air-launched model — as a substitute for the B1.

As the President has presented it, the air-launched cruise missile would be fired from existing B52 bombers.

These bombers would fly over friendly territory, Western Europe, for example, and fire their loads of highly-accurate cruise missiles at targets some 1,500-miles away in the Soviet Union.

But the air-launched cruise missile is only one of a family of such missiles under development. There also are sea-launched and land-launched models under study.

If a sea-launched cruise missile proved workable, for example, every one of the 75 U.S. attack submarines could be turned into a strategic weapon.

Today these submarines can only fire torpedoes designed to hit other ships. Tomorrow those torpedo tubes may contain cruise missiles that will be able to fly thousands of miles to hit targets in the Soviet Union.

Sea-launched cruise missiles under development were carefully designed to fit into the torpedo tubes of attack submarines.

The U.S. now has submarines that can fire ballistic missiles into the Soviet Union — the 41-ship Polaris-Poseidon fleet. But a sea-launched cruise missile, fitting into conventional torpedo tubes, would give the U.S. a whole new strategic fleet at comparatively little cost.

The cruise missile also could change the strategic picture in other important ways.

So far, competition in nuclear armaments has been largely between the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

Each has developed long-range ballistic missiles that will soar into the stratosphere, spanning continents, to drop onto the other country.

But if a land-based cruise missile is developed, it could be based in Western Europe, drawing that region directly into the strategic confrontation for the first time.

For this reason, the Europeans are telling Washington they do not want the U.S. to develop the land-based cruise missile. They have been out of the strategic equation — and they want to stay out.

The Russians have fought against development of the cruise missile and disagreements over it have been a major stumbling block in the stalled strategic arms negotiations.

Neutron bomb wins test votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate supporters of an immediate appropriation for a deadly new nuclear weapon won two test votes Friday after a rare secret debate behind closed doors.

Both votes were close, however, and efforts to forge a compromise will continue during the Independence Day congressional recess. Final action was put off until the senators return on July 11.

Supporters of the weapon, called the neutron bomb, said it would spare civilians. Opponents said it would risk goading an enemy into the use of even more deadly weapons.

THE NEUTRON warhead is designed to kill by radiation and create relatively little of the accompanying heat and blast which account for much of the destruction usually caused by nuclear explosions.

The proposed funds are contained in a bill appropriating $10.3 billion for public works projects and for the Energy Research and Development Administration.

The two votes highlighted 2½ hours of parliamentary maneuvering which followed the Senate's first closed session since aid to Angola was considered in December 1975.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., argued that money for the warhead should be eliminated.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the public works appropriations subcommittee which approved the funds, offered an amendment to require that the money for the weapon could not be spent until the President had certified it to be in the national interest.

This was approved 43 to 42.

The administration has said President Carter will consider between now and Oct. 1 whether to go ahead with plans for the warhead, for which former President Ford first requested funds.

Hatfield then moved to add that the President's decision could be overridden by either branch of Congress within 60 days.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., a supporter of the warhead funds, then urged that action by both houses be required to override the President.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who opposed the appropriation, moved to kill Nunn's amendment. The Nunn amendment survived by a vote of 44 to 41. Final votes on the Hatfield and the Nunn proposals were put off until after the recess.

The move to defer final action came after opponents of the device indicated they were ready to filibuster if necessary to keep the other side from winning.

THE CLOSED session lasted two hours and 43 minutes. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the session was required to keep secret such information as the range and radius of the Lance missile on which the warhead would be used. The amount of money is also a secret.

Several senators distributed copies of remarks which they made during the secret session.

2 sought in wave of sex-slayings give up

Two Redondo Beach men wanted for questioning in connection with a series of eight sex murders in Southern California over the last two years surrendered to Riverside sheriff's deputies Friday.

The suspects, Patrick Kearney, 37, and David Hill, 34, will be arraigned Tuesday at 10:30 a.m.

They walked into the Riverside sheriff's information office Friday, pointed at a wanted poster and declared, "That's us."

They were booked at 12:45 p.m. for suspicion of the murders of Arturo Marquez, 24, of Oxnard, and John O. LaMay, 17, of El Segundo, whose bodies were found in Riverside County last March 3 and 18, respectively.

The suspects, admitted homosexuals, may also be tied to six other sex murders, authorities said, but warrants were issued only on the two in Riverside County.

All eight slayings had sexual overtones, with the bodies of the victims, between the ages of 16 and 24, found nude with gunshot wounds in the head.

"The television and press coverage really helped us out on this one," said Chief Sam Lowery of the Riverside Sheriff's Department, speculating that the wave of publicity and exposure may have helped convince the suspects to turn themselves in.

While bodies of the victims were discovered near major highways in Orange, Los Angeles, San Diego and Riverside counties, Los Angeles sheriff's deputies said they believe the victims were all met or picked up in the McArthur Park and 6th and Central areas of Los Angeles and the El Segundo area. Investigations revealed that several of the victims had homosexual backgrounds.

The slayings were committed in a two-year period dating from April 13, 1975, to March 18, 1977.

2 supervisors charged with political fraud

By Bob Geivet
Staff Writer

The outgoing Orange County Grand Jury indicted two county supervisors, an Anaheim city councilman and three others Friday, charging them with multiple felony and misdemeanor counts stemming from the handling of campaign monies in last year's elections.

Accused were Supervisors Philip L. Anthony of Westminster and Ralph A. Diedrich of Fullerton; Dr. William Kott, a dentist who is an Anaheim City Council member; Gene Conrad, a loan broker who is under federal indictment for fraud; Michael Remington of Fullerton, Diedrich's personal attorney; and Martin Kirschner, a Calabasas jeweler.

Kirschner won continuance of his arraignment until Wednesday and the others were released on their own recognizance to enter pleas July 21 after Judge H. Warren Knight ordered them booked at Orange County Jail.

THE INDICTMENTS were handed down by the grand jury as its last official act before it was discharged. It had served the 1976-77 fiscal year, and was succeeded Friday by a new grand jury for this fiscal year.

The charges laid out by the grand jurors range from felony perjury and conspiracy counts to a series of misdemeanor violations of the state's fair political practices act calling for full disclosure of campaign financing.

The indictments followed eight months of investigation by the grand jury.

Anthony, former mayor of Westminster who was elected supervisor last November, was arcused on 17 counts, including two charges of conspiracy to falsify campaign statements, two of perjury and 13 of falsely reporting his campaign financing statements.

Diedrich, a two-term supervisor who was twice chairman of the county board, was named on 13 charges, including two of conspiracy and two of perjury in one indictment, and two counts of perjury in a separate indictment naming him alone. The other counts against him deal with falsifying campaign reporting statements and financial interest reports.

KOTT FACES two conspiracy counts, one perjury charge and two misdemeanor campaign reporting falsification counts.

Conrad, named in two indictments, is accused of six conspiracy acts, one count of perjury and four charges of falsifying campaign reports.

Remington faces two conspiracy charges, two perjury counts, and seven other charges dealing with falsely reporting campaign financing.

Kirschner is charged on two conspiracy, one perjury and four, misdemeanor counts of falsifications on his financial donations.

The indictments spell out a tangled thread of campaign financing, tracing money from Diedrich and Conrad to both Anthony and Kott. The indictments charge that the sources of funds were hidden and the money laundered before the actual sources were discovered. Anthony and Kott then altered campaign statements to show the "true sources."

The indictments set out 36 overt acts of conspiracy, 13 of perjury and 13 of falsification of campaign reporting.

Carter eyes rationing in lieu of gas tax hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's top energy adviser, James R. Schlesinger, said Friday the administration is considering gasoline rationing as one alternative to its unpopular proposal to raise the tax on gasoline to discourage consumption.

Schlesinger told reporters at an energy policy briefing that another possible alternative is shutting down gasoline stations on weekends or restricting motorists to gasoline purchases on odd-or-even-numbered days.

Schlesinger, who was accompanied by members of his staff, limited reporters throughout the rest of the briefing to attribute remarks only to unidentified "White House energy officials."

The officials said the Carter administration was pleased with the progress of the President's proposed energy policies through Congress. They said most of Carter's proposals, although sometimes modified, were going forward with the major exception of the proposed standby gasoline tax.

Carter had asked authorization to impose a gasoline tax increasing up to a maximum of 50 cents per gallon unless the nation reduced its gasoline consumption.

5 ships diverted amid port strike

By Jack O. Baldwin
Maritime Editor

A strike by a clerical local of the longshoremen's union against five cargo-handling companies hit Long Beach and Los Angeles harbors Friday and at least five ships were diverted.

Picket lines were set up at all five struck facilities, but none of the facilities had cargo ships in port to be unloaded.

And the movement of lumber and paper in the harbors was curtailed by another labor dispute.

Operators of at least five ships due to call at either Long Beach or Los Angeles during the weekend have canceled their proposed calls, according to the Marine Exchange.

The cancellations followed a strike by office workers, members of Local 63, International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, (ILWU) against the five shipping companies.

Struck are International Transportation Service (ITS) and Standard Fruit Co. in Long Beach; the Los Angeles Container Terminal in the West Basin area; American President Lines on the Los Angeles main channel's west bank, and the Marine Terminals Corp., which operates terminal facilities in both ports.

One ship, the Yamashiro Maru, scheduled to have docked in Los Angeles, was rerouted to Oakland, according to the Marine Exchange.

A spokesman said the exchange was not advised as to where the other four ships would be diverted.

Al Slaight, a Newport Beach attorney who served as principal spokesman for the five shipping companies, said he was aware that some ships were being diverted to other West Coast ports but said that he neither knew the ships nor the ports to which they were being rerouted.

While members of Local 13 of the ILWU, the cargo handlers, said they would observe 63's picket line, none showed up because there were no ships to be loaded or unloaded.

During midmorning — normally a busy time with many tractors hauling the van-like cargo containers in and out of port — it was unusually quiet. Cargo movements were virtually at a standstill. Parking areas at eating places frequented by teamsters and longshoremen were all but empty.

Meanwhile, inbound shipments of lumber and rolls of newsprint from some 20 water-front wholesale-retail dealers were at a standstill.

The companies simply locked their gates after they were picketed by members of two of three unions whose contracts expired at midnight Thursday.

Members of the Operating Engineers, Local 501, and the Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union, Local 1407, set up picket lines after their members refused to ratify a recommended contract.

The same contract was accepted by Teamsters, Local 692, and the teamsters did not man the picket lines because they had agreed to the employers' offer. But the teamsters said they would not send their drivers through the engineers' and millworkers' picket line.

LOUISE LASSER AS MARY HARTMAN.

—AP Wirephoto

'Mary' ends as she began, fretting over floor wax

In case you're wondering, soap opera character Mary Hartman ended her series Friday by worrying about "waxy yellow buildup" on a kitchen floor, just as she did when the series began. She did the worrying not in her own home, but in the home of Fernwood police Sgt. Dennis Foley, with whom she's had an affair. It marked the 325th and last episode of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," the much-discussed comedy soap opera that producer Norman Lear began on Jan. 5, 1976. The finale strongly suggested that Mary, played by Louise Lasser, has now become the live-in lover of Foley (Bruce Solomon) after mysteriously vanishing from her home in mythical Fernwood, Ohio, locale of the series.

The show had her estranged from her husband, played by Gregg Mullavey, at the time of her disappearance. But whether she divorces him — and abandons her young daughter — may never be known. The closing episode, taped June 17, was Miss Lasser's last television appearance as Mary Hartman, Lear's office says. The actress, 38, plans to go on to other film work. Her five-day-a-week series usually was seen late at night because of its comic but controversial subject matter, which ranged from indecent exposure to impotence, from adultery to religion. Lear, producer of such network hits as "All in the Family" and "Maude," told reporters last April he'd decided to drop the Hartman show.

Scout free, suspect held

Charlotte Grosse scrambled through a window to freedom Friday, 52 hours after she was dragged screaming from a tent during a Girl Scout campout. The 15-year-old girl made her dash for safety after calling her parents from the sprawling island house in Sarasota, Fla., where she was being held. Police monitoring the call advised her to "leave the residence any way she could — out a window," authorities said. She did, and moments later the man charged with her abduction was arrested as he tried to drive away in an expensive, late-model sports car. Wilfred Arthur Bannister, 33, of Siesta Key, a six-footer with brown, straggly hair, was arrested without resistance. He was expressionless as he was hustled into jail and charged with state counts of kidnapping and involuntary sexual battery. He was described as a salesman with no criminal record. Charlotte was taken to a local hospital for examination, but was reported in good condition. She was reunited with her family. "They're ecstatic," a friend said. A police spokesman said the sexual battery charge was not rape, but rather "sexual fondling." Kidnap carries a maximum sentence of life imprisonment while sexual battery can mean 30 years in jail. Bannister was questioned for nearly two hours, but police said they had not determined a motive for the abduction. About 17 hours after she was dragged from the campground, Charlotte had called her parents from a pay phone and told them her abductor had agreed to free her and she would call again soon. But the call didn't come soon. When there was no further word that night or all day Thursday, tension and doubt mounted. Richard and Carol Grosse waited through the silent hours with their other three younger children in their modest home in nearby Nokomis. Neighbors brought in meals. FBI agents and Sarasota sheriff's deputies continued the search and interviewed a witness to the telephone call who said the abductor may have had a knife or pistol pressed to the girl's abdomen as she talked with her father. The long-awaited second call came about 10 a.m. Friday. "Charlotte talked to the detectives, said she was all right, and was asked if she could get away," said sheriff's spokesman Ray Pilon. "She was told to leave the residence any way she could — out a window. She did it, went next door, and called again." Within minutes, sheriff's deputies rushed to her and arrested Bannister. The girl's ordeal started with a restless Tuesday night at the Oscar Scherer State Park about 13 miles from the home she escaped from Friday.

Benjamin L. Hooks, executive director-designate of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, pledged Friday night to rebuild the organization. Hooks, who currently is a member of the Federal Communications Commission, said he would personally organize and direct a campaign to turn around the declining membership of the oldest civil rights organization in the country. "Our goal is one million members by 1980 and two million by 1985," he said at the closing session of the association's 68th annual convention in St. Louis. Membership in 1976 was 426,358, down from 440,000 the previous year, and a high of 534,710 in 1963.

Idi invokes God

President Idi Amin has warned that "anybody trying to play with his (Amin's) life would be punished by God very severely." There were reports recently of an unsuccessful attempt on Amin's life. He disappeared from public sight for several days and was later reported taking a belated honeymoon with his fifth wife. The paper said Amin made his comment to military officers Friday at a State House ceremony at which the president was decorated as "Conqueror of the British Empire." The title apparently referred to Britain's decision earlier this month to sever its final diplomatic links with Uganda.

'Kiss'-ers hurt

The drummer and the equipment manager of the rock group "Kiss" were slightly injured when their van overturned at Stewart Airport near Newburgh, N.Y. A spokesman at St. Luke's Hospital said drummer Peter Criscoula, 31, suffered cut knees that required several stitches. Paul Chazarella, 22, the equipment manager, was treated for head injuries, he said. Police spotted the overturned vehicle on a winding roadway that runs along the perimeter of the airport Thursday night. The group, which had been scheduled to leave Friday for a concert tour in Canada, was practicing at an airport hangar, police said.

Carter holiday

President Carter began a long holiday weekend at Camp David, Md., Friday, saying that as the nation approaches its 202nd Independence Day, "we have a good, optimistic attitude toward the future." He praised Congress for its work on his energy program, not all of which has gone his way, and an aide said he spoke to congressional leaders before leaving Washington to thank them for their support. Carter flew by helicopter to the mountaintop retreat 60 miles north of Washington. He was accompanied by his wife, Rosalynn, 9-year-old daughter Amy; one of his sons, Chip; Chip's wife, Caron, and their son, James Earl Carter IV.

Vance: No Africa war

Combined News Services

ST. LOUIS — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said Friday that the United States pledges its support in helping black African nations solve their problems, but he said there is little chance of America intervening militarily. "The history of the past 15 years suggests that efforts by outside powers to dominate African nations will fail," Vance said. "Our challenge is to find ways of being supportive without becoming interventionist or intrusive." Vance's remarks were loudly applauded by about 4,000 delegates and visitors at the annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Africa meet opens

LIBREVILLE, Gabon — The 49-member Organization of African Unity (OAU) opens a four-day summit conference here today more divided than at any time in its 14-year history. Split from one end of the continent to the other along ideological lines and often locked in local conflicts with their neighbors, the African leaders are in full agreement on only one major point: while minority rule must be swept off every inch of African soil.

Shootout in Italy

ROME — Police and three suspected leftist guerrillas shot it out Friday near the steps of the Church of St. Peter in Champs in downtown Rome, sending dozens of bystanders scuttling for cover. One guerrilla was killed and two, both women, were captured. No police casualties were reported. "The women, who escaped last year from a Naples prison, were hospitalized with minor injuries, police said.

Ex-lawmaker pleads guilty

NEW ORLEANS — Former Congressman Richard A. Tonry pleaded guilty Friday to campaign violations that could mean four years in prison and a $70,000 fine. Tonry admitted conspiring to get backers to violate the $1,000 federal limit on cash campaign contributions, and he admitted promising jobs or influence to those contributors. In Tonry's whirlwind rise and fall, the brief court session Friday was the low point. Tonry reached Congress only to confront a committee investigating whether he should be expelled. On May 3 — the day before the scheduled election vote — he resigned, making a special election necessary back home. He lost badly in the primary.

Copper strike

Operations at seven major copper producers were halted by the strike, which began at midnight Thursday. An eighth firm was to be struck at midnight Friday.

Forbidden fruit

I would like to know why my daughter was accused of stealing a plum at Vons Market, 1033 Long Beach Blvd., in front of everyone. I think it was because she is black. She is 18 and was shopping with her 30-year-old sister. They had a cart full of groceries, including a large bag of plums. My daughter took one of the plums from their grocery cart and started eating it.

A store employee came up to her and told her she was stealing the plum, and that she would have to pay 25 cents for it. He even followed them to the checkout stand to be sure she paid. Why was she treated that way? W.R.N., Long Beach.

There is a serious shoplifting problem at that Vons store, said Grocery Manager Larry Miller, and all employees have been told to look out for it. He said it is store policy to speak to anyone seen taking merchandise—especially produce—and ask them to pay for it.

"Everyone thinks the little plum or grape he eats in the store won't make any difference," Miller said. "But we get 25,000 customers in here each week. If every one of them took just one plum, it would add up to a lot of money. A piece of fruit costs between 15 and 25 cents. Many people wouldn't dare take an 18-cent candy bar, but think nothing of eating a piece of fruit, and it adds up to the same thing.

"We don't want to embarrass anyone, and the employee who spoke to your reader could have been a little out of line. But we do mention it to anyone we see taking or eating things in the store."

Refund request

I was planning to get married July 16. On April 21 I went to Love Thy Plant, 12741 Valley View Ave., La Mirada, to arrange for the wedding flowers. I ordered $204 worth of flowers. The owner said she didn't care about a deposit as long as we paid two weeks before the wedding; but I paid a $50 deposit. Nothing was said at the time about the deposit not being refundable.

Now my wedding has been canceled. When I called the florist I was told I could have credit at the shop, but they would not give me a cash refund. I can't afford to lose $50. Can you help me get my money back? G.R., Artesia.

No. Wanda Brady, owner of the shop, said she has sent you a credit voucher for $50, which she regards as a "very generous" settlement. She said planning the wedding flowers for you and filling out the lengthy order took up at least $25 of her time, and she did not feel she could justify giving you a cash refund.

"It is store policy, she said, not to refund deposits. 'People get in spats all the time. We can't afford to lose time and money on canceled weddings.'"

Park pollution

I recently attended a camp-out with my son at Featherly Park, which is located off the 91 Freeway in the Santa Ana Canyon. The stretch of the Santa Ana River that runs along the park is polluted, according to signs posted along the bank. I visited this campground a few years ago when it first opened and the river was polluted then. Who is responsible for this pollution and why isn't any action being taken by the water-quality authorities to clean it up? T.G., La Palma.

For many years, the river has been polluted with sewage effluent from several municipal waste-treatment facilities upstream in Riverside and San Bernardino counties, according to a spokesman for the California Water Quality Control Board. The state has ordered the cities to upgrade their sewage plants to eliminate the river pollution, but it may take several years. The state initially set July 1978 as the deadline for the clean-up project and can fine cities that don't comply. However, the spokesman said, "it looks like we may have to give some of the cities an extension, but the cities first have to convince us that they're really moving toward a solution." Orange County health authorities have banned swimming in the stretch of the river near Featherly Park because of the bacteria content of the water.

Energy task force for county gets go-ahead

Associated Press

Los Angeles County Supervisor Ed Edelman's proposal to set up an energy task force has been approved by the County Energy Commission, it was announced Friday.

The plan is designed to meet the energy needs of the far western states while fulfilling President Carter's conservation requirements.

"I think the regional approach is more helpful in getting Carter's attention," Edelman said Friday. He said he plans to talk with the governors of California, Nevada, Arizona and Hawaii — a bloc of western states used for federal administrative purposes — in efforts to start immediate action on the plan.

Edelman said the task force may work on arranging a fuel trade with eastern states.

"They need oil to burn for home heating, for example," Edelman said. "We don't need it, but we need natural gas. They don't need as much gas because of their public transportation."

Water conservation would also be a task force priority, Edelman said.

Brown attends L.A. mayor's swearing-in

Bradley urges consolidation of government

Associated Press

With Gov. Brown in attendance, Tom Bradley was sworn in Friday by State Supreme Court Justice Rose Bird for his second term as mayor of Los Angeles, and he promptly called for a consolidation of city government.

Proposed changes include a reorganization of the Department of Public Works, Department of Transportation, Department of Cultural Affairs, and the creation of a Department of General Services and Department of Facility Management.

"The structure of this city government suffers from a bad case of obsolescence," Bradley told a crowd of about 1,500 from the steps at City Hall.

"Precious little has changed since our charter was adopted in 1925. Without an immediate and well-thought-out overhaul of city government, I don't think it's possible for us to run an efficient operation without needless waste and duplication," he said.

The Department of General Services would consolidate all support services to conduct city business. The Department of Facility Management would care for public property.

Also sworn in during the inauguration ceremonies was City Councilman John Ferraro, unanimously elected as council president Friday, replacing veteran Councilman John Gibson, who was sworn in for his sixth term of office.

Councilman Joel Wachs was earlier elected president pro-tem. Council members Marvin Braude, Bob Ronka, Joy Pious, Zev Yaroslavsky, Ernie Bernardi, Gilbert Lindsay and Peggy Stevenson also took oaths of office.

Bradley told the crowd on the City Hall lawn that Los Angeles' key needs include more jobs, more affordable housing, rebuilding run-down neighborhoods, greater effort in combatting crime and vandalism, conservation of energy and better transportation.

The 59-year-old mayor, re-elected last April with a 60 per cent majority, said all his proposals could be implemented within the existing city structure without additional cost.

During his 45-minute speech, Bradley praised Los Angeles residents for cutting their water consumption by more than the mandatory 10 per cent.

He also pushed for "peaceful and responsible compliance" to court-ordered integration in the sprawling Los Angeles school district.

"The safety and education of our children are of paramount concern to us. We must not fail them," Bradley said.

He also said he is not satisfied with the current effort to clean up the city's environment.

'Miser' Brown's budget cuts are hit all around

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Half a day after Gov. Brown chopped $187 million from the state budget, he was being denounced as insensitive to the poor, the elderly, educators and state employees.

The chief victims of Brown's budget ax were Medi-Cal doctors, nursing home employees, college teachers and state workers, and all reacted angrily Friday.

Several complaints cited the projected $2.67-billion surplus in the state general fund and federal revenue-sharing money Brown projected for the end of the 1977-78 fiscal year despite a record $14.52-billion budget.

"APPARENTLY the governor is not interested in what kind of care or treatment is given to California's elderly or chronically ill," said Jim Jones, spokesman for the California Association of Health Facilities, representing nursing homes.

Employees at those homes, a target of critical state investigations, were denied $15.9 million that would have brought their pay up to that of comparable workers at state hospitals.

Jones said a nurse's assistant at a nursing home makes $2.69 an hour, compared to $4.36 for a comparable state hospital employee. He said the disparity hurts employees' attitudes, causes high turnover and contributes to problems in patient care.

Brown, who granted the homes a 6 per cent increase in Medi-Cal fees, said in vetoing the larger raise that they have had a 50 per cent boost since mid-1975.

Dr. Kash Rose of Napa, president of the California Medical Association, reacted similarly to Brown's veto of a 6 per cent fee increase for doctors treating Medi-Cal patients. Last year, most of those doctors got their first major increases since 1967.

"THIS WILL deny Medi-Cal patients further access to physicians' offices and could end up costing the state more money by forcing them into emergency rooms, which are more expensive," Rose said.

William Craib, president of the 110,000-member California State Employees Association, said the state could have afforded the 10.1 per cent employee raise recommended by the State Personnel Board based on prevailing private wages rather than the 7.5 per cent Brown approved.

"A Miserly Attitude"

"The governor has demonstrated a miserly attitude toward his own employees," said Craib, who added that the CSEA may try to get the Legislature to restore the funds by an override vote in August.

An official of the Congress of Faculty Association, representing state college teachers, said the group would join any override attempt.

Brown cut University of California and state college faculty's proposed 6.5 per cent raise to 5 per cent, saying studies — which teachers hotly dispute — showed teachers at similar schools making comparable salaries.

"He has shown an insensitivity to employee needs, and his action definitely will precipitate a renewed faculty desire for collective bargaining," said George Clark, assistant executive director of the 6,000-teacher congress.

"It's easy for the governor to demonstrate he's tough," said Warren Kessler, a Fresno State philosophy teacher who is president of the 3,000-member United Professors of California at the state colleges.

"The governor is taking a lot of interest in prisons and mental hospitals. He ought to take a look at some of the root causes and pay some attention to education."

He also criticized Brown's deletion of $500,000 for remedial writing courses at the state colleges.

Egly first wants ideas on how to improve plan

Integration ruling set for next week

Associated Press

Superior Court Judge Paul Egly Friday affirmed that he will rule next week on the merits of the Los Angeles school board's integration plan, but said first he wants to get some ideas on how the board can go about improving the plan.

Egly spent the day hearing opinions on possible revision time limits and suggestions for expert advisers from attorneys for the board, the parties who brought the original suit seeking desegregation and several intervenors in the case.

The judge concluded 12 weeks of hearings last month on the board's limited desegregation plan, under which only junior high students in some schools would be bused to integrated learning centers for nine weeks of a school year.

Although Egly has given every indication that he will return the plan to the board for revision, he has not specified how extensive his criticisms will be. The judge Friday rejected suggestions by board attorney G. William Shea and attorney Harvey Saferstein for intervenor Better Education for Students Today (BEST) that he return the plan for changes to the board without issuing a formal ruling.

"The problem I see," he said, "is how does the board, this court and the community work out a plan that is going to make it if I don't tell them what's wrong with it. . . I hope my frankness with them will not be construed as animosity."

Shea said the board met Thursday night and asked to have the plan returned for study of alternative plans offered by all sides.

"They (board members) have come back with a reasonable suggestion — all right, maybe we didn't do enough then. The board asks the petitioners and intervenors to come in and show them what they want done."

"It's very easy to sit up here and say desegregate the schools — without one idea about how we're going to do it and afford it," he said.

While the hearing was going on, the city school board met for its first session of the new governmental year and elected Howard Miller president. He, fellow incumbent Diane Watson and antibusing newcomer Bobbi Fiedler were sworn in to new four-year terms.

County strike threat lessens

By Noel Swann
From Our L.A. Bureau

Threat of a strike by county workers appeared to dissipate Friday after union and management spokesmen confirmed that tentative agreements had been reached with 33 employee bargaining units.

Neither side would say how many employees were covered by the 33 units or which groups were involved in the tentative pacts.

In a memo to the Board of Supervisors, however, Chief Administrative Officer Harry Hufford said discussions continued Friday with eight remaining units.

Nevertheless, he said, tentative agreement had been reached at the fringe benefit table, where a coalition of all county unions has been represented. This appeared to be a key breakthrough, since it affects all bargaining units, and it was apparent the unresolved issues with the eight units related to working conditions rather than wages.

Although the agreements of most bargaining units expired Thursday, Hufford stressed in his memo that all current pacts are being extended by mutual agreement while bargaining continues.

At midafternoon Friday there were reports that members of some bargaining units were dissatisfied with the progress of negotiations and planned to picket county buildings. Pickets failed to materialize, however.

Hufford said the tentative pacts reached so far have yet to be ratified by memberships.

Woman listed for U.S. Atty.

A 37-year-old Pacific Palisades woman was nominated Friday to be the new United States Atty. in Los Angeles.

Andrea Ordín, a former deputy state attorney general who holds the third-highest job in the Los Angeles district attorney's office, was nominated for the post by Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston.

She was one of five nominees selected by a judicial screening commission set up by Cranston and Republican Sen. S.J. Hayakawa.

Cranston said Mrs. Ordín, who is Los Angeles County assistant district attorney, and George Hunter, a San Francisco County assistant district attorney nominated for a similar San Francisco post, received the "highest recommendation" from the California Judicial Screening Commission set up earlier this year.

Hayakawa included Mrs. Ordín on his list along with Superior Court Judge Terry J. Hatter for the Los Angeles post. The senator said he had no preference between the two. For the San Francisco post, Hayakawa recommended San Francisco attorney Charles Breyer.

Others nominated for the Los Angeles post included Michael J. Lightfoot, a criminal law professor at Loyola University; Richard M. Mosk, a partner in the firm of Mitchell Silberberg & Knupp; and Brian J. O'Neill, a partner in Manatt, Phelps, Rothenburg, Manley and Tunney.

President Carter and Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell will send their final recommendation for appointments to the Senate Judiciary Committee. The U.S. Senate must confirm the nominations.

"Mrs. Ordín's appointment will be a milestone since only two women have been appointed U.S. Atty. in the history of the nation," said Cranston.

Mrs. Ordín and Hunter were among five finalists for each of the positions submitted by the commission which had screened "some 100 candidates over the past several months," Cranston said.

The names of all 10 finalists were sent to the attorney general as required by the commission charter.

Mrs. Ordín, who was deputy state attorney general from 1965 to 1972, has been assistant district attorney for Los Angeles County since 1975.

The first woman to be named a U.S. Atty. was Annette Abbott Adams of San Francisco in 1919. The second was Virginia McCarty of Indianapolis, Ind., who was confirmed last month.

Hunter, 34, was a former Alameda County Dist. Atty. from 1973 to 1976 and has been deputy district attorney in San Francisco the past year.

Mrs. Ordín said Friday that if she is approved, she will try to take on the job "as soon as possible to learn the administrative ropes."

She said she felt the nomination process "will move very quickly."

Auburn Dam fault dangers reported

SACRAMENTO (AP) — "Small fault movements" at the Auburn Dam foundation could cause the planned concrete arch dam to fail, consultants hired by the state reported Friday.

The Department of Water Resources released a report from a consulting board on the dam which came to the same conclusion that Woodward-Clyde Associates reported earlier this week.

This is that the key question is whether any of about 30 small faults traversing the dam foundation site are active. But the state consultants added the judgment on concrete-dam design safety that the federally hired officials refused to make.

President Carter has suspended funding on the $710-million project, on which $230 million has been spent, until he is convinced that the dam can be built to withstand earthquakes.

Although another board will report to the DWR on whether the current thin-arch concrete design is adequate, the Consulting Board of Earthquake Analysis for the state said it is "particularly concerned with the critical effects of possible fault movements in the foundation or abutments" on the safety of the dam.

"Such deformations are likely to have more serious consequences for a concrete arch type of dam than for other types of dams which might be used."

"Thus, although a concrete dam might well be designed to withstand very high levels of shaking, it might fail as a result of small fault movements occurring in the foundation rock."

Woodward-Clyde, a San Francisco area firm hired by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation to study seismic probabilities, reported Tuesday night that it will be difficult to determine how old the faults are because of erosion in the American River canyon.

Faults that have shown movement at least once in the last 100,000 years are considered active. The board urged continued research at the foundation. Bureau officials said such work was continuing.

The board also accepted the Woodward-Clyde conclusion that a 6.5 earthquake was the maximum credible tremor in the Foothills fault system.

LB policemen accept 3-year wage contract

Long Beach police officers Friday overwhelmingly accepted a three-year labor agreement with the city that included a 15.75 per cent wage boost and the equivalent of a 14.5 per cent increase in pension benefits.

Police Officers Association president Sgt. Michael Tracy said the contract will be formally recognized by the City Council

Tuesday, marking the first time the city will make a labor agreement a formal contract.

Police became the second major city employee group to ratify a labor pact. The Firefighters Association accepted their three-contract Thursday. The City Employees Association remains at the bargaining table.

4F arrested, held 40 days by Army

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A 28-year-old man found unqualified for military service eight years ago was arrested as a deserter in March and held for 40 days in a snafu which Army officials can't explain.

Lester Adgers of Charlotte said he showed investigators his 4F (physically unfit for service) draft card and insisted from the day he was picked up by the FBI that someone apparently used stolen identification to enlist under his name.

After his employer and his congressman got involved, he was released from Ft. Bragg, taken home and given a $2,000 cash settlement. Adgers said he took the cash settlement rather than sue after talking with a base legal officer.

After checking records and comparing Adgers' fingerprints and medical examination results with those of the man who enlisted, the Army concluded Adgers apparently was the victim of "forgery by some unknown person."

Neither Adgers nor the Army could explain why anyone would forge an enlistment.

A spokesman at the Army recruiting station in Charlotte said records show that someone identifying himself as Adgers signed up in January 1975 but failed to report for active duty two months later.

Adgers said he believes the person used identification from a wallet he lost two years ago.

Two FBI agents showed up at Adgers' house last March 18 and approached him in the yard as he was leaving for work.

"They asked if I was Lester Adgers, and I said yes," he said. "Then they asked if I'd ever been in the Army. I told them no, but they said: 'According to what we have here, you're a deserter. You'll have to come with us.'"

He spent a brief time in the city jail and then was put on a helicopter with military police and flown to Ft. Bragg.

Adgers was issued a uniform, told to act like a soldier and put to work at guard duty and maintenance chores.

Army officials kept assuring him they were trying to verify his story and complimented him on his patience, he said.

"All the records we had available at the time indicated this was the guy we were seeking," said an Army spokesman at Ft. Bragg. The Army has assigned a special unit to find out what went wrong.

Adgers and his parents said they did not know why he was classified 4-F eight years ago.

Kennedy bids for key tax-reform role

By Edward Cowan
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — In a bid for a leadership role in revision of the tax laws, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy issued a 41-page list of tax "reform" proposals Friday.

Kennedy, D-Mass., said his approach resembled that of Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal in that it was "reformist" rather than "radical." However, Kennedy acknowledged that his purpose was to prod the administration "to be bold."

Among other things, Kennedy proposed:

—Ending reduced rates of tax on capital gains, such as profits on the sale of stock or property. The Carter administration is known to be especially interested in such a change, but is thus far uncommitted.

—Ending deductions for business entertainment, including meals and tickets to sports events.

—Reducing minimum individual tax rates to 10 per cent from the present 14 per cent and the top rate to 50 per cent from 70 per cent. The corporate tax rate would be cut to 45 per cent from 48.

Sounding a favorite theme of liberal tax reformers, Kennedy attacked deductions from taxable income for charitable contributions, health-care expenses, mortgage interest and property taxes as "upside down" forms of government subsidy in which the Treasury helps the rich more than the poor. That is because the deduction from taxable income saves a high-bracket taxpayer more money than one in a low bracket.

Kennedy proposed that deductions for contributions, mortgage interest and property taxes be converted to tax credits.

Deductions for health care should be phased out with the introduction of national health insurance, he urged.

HE ALSO proposed converting the $750 exemption for each taxpayer and each dependent to a credit of $200 to $250. Credits for children would be "refundable," that is, payable in cash to poor people whose income tax liability was too low to let them take full advantage of the credit.

Kennedy's statement ranged over many other issues, including investment incentives, minerals taxation, tax shelters, death and gift taxes and corporate taxes. His office said his principal adviser on tax matters is Prof. Paul R. McDaniel of the Boston College law school.

Kennedy signaled that even though he lacks a seat on the Senate Finance Committee, which drafts tax laws, he intends to play a leading role in shaping the tax-reform bill the Carter administration hopes to get from Congress in 1978. Some Capitol Hill observers also saw in the statement a challenge to the committee chairman, Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, who is more conservative and business-minded.

Kennedy opened his statement with praise for Blumenthal, the Treasury tax staff, Internal Revenue commissioner Jerome Kurtz and Carter's own "commitment to fundamental tax reform."

WHILE saying he sought a "cooperative exchange of views," Kennedy made it plain that he was trying to set an example for the administration lest its proposals be too cautious. Blumenthal has said, somewhat tentatively, that he hoped to submit a tax-reform package to Congress by the end of September.

Kennedy said his proposals would yield no revenue gain or loss to the Treasury. He said his changes would involve $21 billion of revenue shifts for individuals and $7 billion for corporations. That is, closing some so-called loopholes, such as lower capital-gains rates, would generate $21 billion more revenue, but an across-the-board reduction in income tax rates would be just offsetting.

Kennedy said, "The primary relief would go to low- and middle-income taxpayers." A legislative aide shielded away from saying which taxpayers would end up with bigger tax bills, partly on the grounds that the analysis hadn't been done and that it would depend on the individual's circumstances.

One technical and highly controversial proposal concerned taxation of capital gains at death. Stocks and property that have appreciated during the lifetime of an owner now escape taxation when they are inherited, if they are not sold. Kennedy would make the capital gain taxable at death.

Kennedy flatly opposed one tax change that the administration has under active, sympathetic consideration. That is elimination or reduction of the so-called double-taxation of corporate dividends, once through the corporate income tax and again through the tax on individual dividend income.

Deficit eases up in Postal Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service announced Friday that it is losing money at a slower pace than at almost any time since it was reorganized in 1971. But it plans action soon to increase postal rates again.

The deficit for the year ending June 30 was about $50 million. Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar announced, "Compared to the $1.2 billion deficit in fiscal 1976, this is real progress," he said.

Bailar described the Postal Service's financial condition as better than at any time since it was created in the 1971 postal reorganization.

But he said that because "inflation continues to plague the Postal Service," the mail agency will need to take steps soon to increase rates next year.

The Postal Service board of governors is expected next week to propose increasing the first-class letter rate from the present 13 cents to 16 cents. The increase could not take effect until the Postal Rate Commission, an independent body, holds up to 10 months of hearings.

Bailar, defending the rate increase, said the agency faces pay increases soon that are built into existing labor agreements, as well as such other unavoidable cost increases as rising fuel costs.

He said that when the new rates are effective early next year, over two years will have passed since the last increase in first-class rates. "I think that is evidence that the Postal Service is successfully managing its budget and controlling cost as much as possible," he said.

At one time postal managers had expected to lose about $1 billion in the year ended June 30. But they have periodically revised this estimate downward.

The $50-million deficit compares to average deficits of almost $500 million in the five previous years and red ink averaging higher than $1 billion in each of the two previous years. The only July 1-June 30 period in which the deficit was lower than in the year just ended was fiscal 1973, when losses were $13 million.

White collar salaries rise 6.9% in year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Salaries of white-collar workers rose an average of 6.9 per cent in the 12 months ending last March, the Labor Department reported Friday. The inflation rate went up 6.4 per cent in the same period.

The department said it was the third biggest salary increase in the 17-year history of its nationwide survey.

Pay raises averaged 6.6 per cent for clerical jobs and 7.1 per cent for professional, administrative and technical occupations between March 1976 and March 1977. Over the same period, consumer prices rose 6.4 per cent.

The information obtained in the salary survey is used in developing recommendations for adjusting pay of white-collar federal employees, whose salaries are required by law to remain comparable with those of private industry.

Among selected professional occupations, the survey found salaries for accountants rose an average of 7.8 per cent last year, attorneys 5.4 per cent, personnel directors 9.1 per cent, engineers 6.4 per cent and computer operators 5.4 per cent.

Pay for clerks rose an average of 6.9 per cent, while that for keypunch operators increased 5.9 per cent and secretaries 6.4 per cent.

Treatment for high blood pressure hit

BOSTON (AP) — A common treatment for high blood pressure does more harm than good and costs patients millions of dollars in unnecessary prescriptions, two Tufts doctors said Friday.

Doctors routinely recommend that patients take potassium supplements when they receive diuretics, drugs that help lower high blood pressure. However, the Tufts Medical School doctors concluded that the extra potassium is unnecessary and can actually be harmful.

One in every 200 hospitalized patients receiving the extra potassium faces "life threatening" danger, they said.

The study was conducted by Jerome P. Kassirer, associate physician-in-chief at New England Medical Center, and John Harrington, director of the hospital's dialysis unit.

Suicide's body hidden 3 years

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Preliminary results of an autopsy support the macabre story of a woman who said she locked her former husband's body in a closet for three years after he committed suicide.

Prizelle Aguilar, 44, told police earlier this week that Herbert Fischer, 41, killed himself in 1974 when she refused his request for reconciliation after they were divorced.

Fischer's remains were found in a garage closet which Mrs. Aguilar said she nailed shut after she put the body inside.

Mrs. Aguilar, a biologist, told police she poured formaldehyde and other disinfectants over the body and put mothballs in the closet.

She said she went to police after three years because her conscience bothered her.

Police said they also found a dog preserved in formaldehyde in another closet.

Officers said Friday that preliminary results of an autopsy lend credence to Mrs. Aguilar's contention that Fischer shot himself in the head with a .38-caliber pistol.

Mrs. Aguilar has not been arrested. Police said results of the investigation would be turned over to the district attorney.

$1.6 million of slain heiress's cash found

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — More than $1.6 million believed stolen from the Indianapolis home of a murdered heiress has been found buried in the desert 20 miles north of here, the FBI said Friday.

Two cardboard boxes containing $1,657,000 were discovered Thursday by agents acting on information provided by authorities in Indianapolis.

The money was found nearly a month after Howard R. Willard, 38, and his ex-wife, Marjorie Pollitt, 49, were arrested in Phoenix and turned over to authorities in Indiana. About $1.8 million was recovered when the couple was arrested.

Leon Gaskill, the agent in charge of the FBI's Phoenix office, said the desert cache is believed to be the last of the money taken from home of Mrs. Marjorie Jackson, whose body was found May 7 in her home.

The 65-year-old woman, whose late husband owned a chain of grocery stores, had been shot to death and a fire had been set in the house in an apparent effort to cover up her killing, authorities said.

About $5 million was taken from the house, but an additional $5 million was left behind in the drawers and closets where she had hidden it.

Cops' gambling troubles told

NEW YORK (AP) — Compulsive gambling has joined alcoholism as a primary cause of disciplinary problems in the New York City Police Department, a police chaplain says.

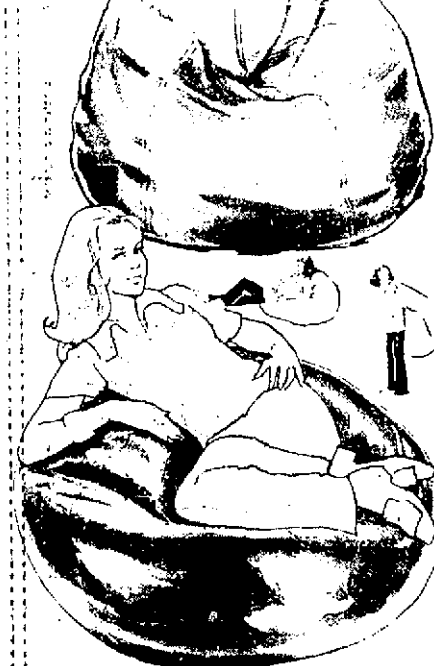

An untold number of New York City's 25,000 police officers are up to their necks in gambling debts, according to Msgr. Joseph Dunne.

When Msgr. Dunne was appointed Catholic chaplain in 1958, drinking was the cause of most disciplinary violations. Men who were alcoholics were more likely to be charged with misconduct.

He said compulsive gambling is now causing the same kinds of difficulties.

Posse hunting killers finds body of kidnaped ranger

MAGAZINE, Ark. (AP) — The body of a park ranger abducted by two men who killed the town marshal and wounded another ranger earlier this week was found Friday about 40 miles south of here.

State Police Capt. Buren Jackson said the body was found in the same area where officers discovered the pickup truck used as the gunmen's getaway vehicle.

About 125 men guided by local woodsmen hiked and rode through oak and maple forest land in Ouachita National Forest in western Arkansas in a continuing search for the gunmen Friday.

The suspects, who have not been identified, are believed to be in their 20s and armed with .357-magnum pistols and a .44-magnum pistol.

In Purcell, authorities also launched a massive manhunt as troopers fanned out around the south-central Oklahoma town.

Wednesday, two men shot and killed Magazine town marshal Marvin E. Richie, 42, and wounded and left for dead part-time Corps ranger David Small, 27.

Corps ranger Opal James, 58, of Havana, Ark., was taken hostage as the gunmen fled in the Corps pickup truck.

The town marshal had gone to investigate a car with Louisiana license plates when he was abducted and locked in the trunk of his patrol car.

The two rangers, working at the Corps-operated Blue River Reservoir, saw the marshal's car, went to check it out and were confronted by the gunmen.

Small said the two men placed him in the police-car trunk, handcuffed him with the marshal and then fired two shots into the Nation losing ground in inflation fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation is continuing to lose ground in the battle against inflation, a new economic report from the administration showed Friday.

The report predicted that consumer prices will increase 6.9 per cent this year and 6.1 per cent in 1978, somewhat more than previously forecast. Just three months ago the administration had predicted an inflation rate of 6.7 per cent for 1977 and 5.6 per cent for 1978.

Looking toward 1982, the report projected only a moderate improvement in the rate of inflation. It said prices could still be increasing at more than a 4 per cent annual rate in 1982.

Overall prices increased 4.8 per cent last year.

WHILE THE inflation outlook was worse than forecast previously, there was an improvement in the administration's projection for unemployment.

It said the jobless rate, which was 6.9 per cent in May, should average 7 per cent this year and 6.3 per cent in 1978. Its last previous projections in April had forecast an average jobless rate of 7.2 per cent this year and 6.4 per cent in 1978.

By 1982, it said, unemployment could be as low as an average of 4.5 per cent, which would be near the 4 per cent level that is considered the measure of full employment in the economy.

The changed economic forecasts were contained in the mid-session review of the 1978 budget that the administration sent to Congress.

Because of rapid economic growth in the first six months of the year, the administration revised upward to 5.1 per cent its forecast for real growth of the economy this year, as reflected in the Gross National Product. That compares with 4.9 per cent forecast in April.

BUT THE stronger 1977 growth will be reflected in slower growth next year, down to 5.3 per cent from the 5.6 per cent estimated previously, the administration said.

The administration said that, hypothetically, the government could have budget surpluses of $3.9 billion by 1980, $42.1 billion by 1981 and $75.5 billion by 1982, if the economy grew at a steady 5 per cent rate during the period and if there were no major changes in tax or spending policy.

But it indicated in the report it does not expect such surpluses because of the prospect of legislative changes, including the major tax reform proposal that the administration plans to send to Congress later this year. It gave the same qualification for its outlook for unemployment and inflation in 1982, saying these were hypothetical assumptions rather than forecasts.

Encephalitis and plague reported

ATLANTA (AP) — One case of St. Louis encephalitis and four cases of bubonic plague have been reported this year, the national Center for Disease Control said Friday.

All the victims are recovering. The CDC said an 89-year-old man from Dallas was stricken with encephalitis in June but has improved and been released from a hospital. The disease, caused by a virus and transmitted to humans by insects, causes inflammation of the brain. It is sometimes called sleeping sickness.

Two cases of bubonic plague were reported in New Mexico and one each in Colorado and Arizona.

Cruise missile

The Russians apparently have given up hope, however, of stopping the air-launched cruise missile.

Well-placed sources say the Soviets now are willing to accept U.S. deployment of air-launched cruise missiles with a range of about 1,500 miles.

Thus, Carter's announcement of plans to deploy the air-launched cruise missile does not raise any new problem in strategic arms talks.

Now the major disagreements are over the future of sea-based and land-based cruise missiles. The Russians want the U.S. to limit the range of both these potential members of the cruise-missile family to less than 500 miles. That would mean they could not be used as strategic weapons to strike the Soviet Union.

But the U.S. has asked a steep price of the Russians for that kind of limitation. It has demanded that the Russians cut their force of giant SS9 and SS18 missiles in half. It has also demanded that the Russians cooperate with the U.S. in "major reductions" in the number of nuclear arms.

The major reductions, however, would require the Russians to de-

Parades, worry mark Canadian birthday

OTTAWA (AP) — Cannon boomed, flags rippled and thousands of Canadians crowded the streets Friday to celebrate their nation's 110th birthday with parades, parties and fireworks.

The government — worried about Canadian unity because of growing talk of secession in Quebec — spent $3.5 million on the celebrations.

The program for the $500,000 televised birthday party Friday night on Parliament Hill included entertainment by leading Canadian performers, unfurling of a 145-foot Canadian flag on the clock tower of Parliament and a giant fireworks display.

Last year's Parliament Hill celebration was canceled as an austerity measure. But the takeover of the Quebec provincial government by the separatist Parti Quebecois in an election last November was believed to have spurred the federal outlay for Canada Day celebrations.

The province spent $2.5 million last week celebrating the least day of St. John the Baptist, patron saint of French Canadians. Premier Rene Levesque, who has promised a referendum on Quebec independence, called a national holiday.

The opposition walked out of the Quebec legislature Thursday after the Parti Quebecois majority blocked a resolution to send birthday greetings to the rest of Canada.

The separatists say Quebec, largest of Canada's 10 provinces, has been "colonized" by English Canada and can escape only through political independence. About 80 per cent of the province's 6.2 million residents are French-speaking.

U.S. spurs China, S. Africa, Russia on nonproliferation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said Friday the United States is trying to get China and South Africa to join international efforts to restrain nuclear proliferation.

But the White House said later that no actual negotiations to this end are being conducted.

The White House also said the administration is working with the Soviet Union to persuade exporters of uranium to apply strict safeguards.

At the same time, Carter praised West Germany's decision to limit export of sensitive nuclear technology.

The President met with Gerard C. Smith, whom he has nominated to be the special U.S. representative on nuclear nonproliferation matters and the nation's representative on the International Atomic Energy Agency. Carter said the German decision was "a step in the right direction."

Press Secretary Jody Powell said at the daily White House news briefing that he could not detail any contacts with the Chinese or South Africans. His office said later that because China, as far as the White House could determine, does not export any uranium, there were no actual nuclear negotiations under way with the Chinese.

"South Africa has applied safeguards on its uranium exports, and we have every expectation that it will continue to do so," a White House press office statement said.

stroy more existing arms than the U.S. and the Russians claim this is unfair.

In any event, experts wonder whether it is too late to control the cruise missile.

Ballistic missiles are huge and are put in silos which can be counted by sophisticated photography from satellites. That has made it possible to monitor arms-control agreements covering ballistic missiles.

But a cruise missile can be hidden almost anywhere.

"It is almost impossible to monitor the cruise missile," says Thomas Halsted, director of the privately-sponsored Arms Control Association here.

A cruise missile flies low, over the treetops, at subsonic speeds — about 650 miles per hour.

Sensors study the ground below and feed information into a computer to tell the missile exactly where it is. It flies so low — perhaps 50 or 60 feet — that it can come in under most radar. It is so small — 20-feet-long — that it is hard for radar to spot.

Experts like Halsted say there is one way the cruise missile can still be restrained — if the U.S.

would agree to stop testing sea- and land-based versions. Under those conditions, generals could never be sure if they would work.

As matters now stand, however, the U.S. and the Soviets have not been able to agree on a formula that would restrain the land- and sea-based cruise missile, and there is no sign that agreement might be close.

The cruise missile era has arrived. What still is not clear is how fast it may develop.

Meanwhile, Defense Secretary Harold Brown said Friday the B1 bomber would have been a good buy if it had been 30 per cent cheaper. Scrapping the plane and developing the cruise missile instead will save billions, he added.

Brown also told reporters the U.S. does not intend to bargain away the cruise missile in upcoming arms talks with the Soviet Union, although he said some limitations on the weapon could be acceptable.

Asked if the U.S. would accept curbs on the cruise missile, Brown said, "I did not say that we would not accept any constraints. I said that the constraints we accept must not harm our strategic capability."

Brown backs Canadian pipeline for Alaska gas

By John Sheehan
Staff Writer

Gov. Brown said Friday he favors a pipeline route through Canada to deliver more than 26 trillion feet of natural gas from North Alaska to California and the rest of the nation.

In a recommendation to President Carter, Brown said he would not endorse any of three competing transmission proposals in the absence of a decision by Canada — expected Monday — on whether it would allow a pipeline.

Meanwhile, federal agencies evaluating the competing proposals said a pipeline following the Alaska Highway would do the least damage to the environment.

Brown's decision came as a top California energy official announced that final arrangements for financing a 758-mile pipeline to bring Mexican natural gas north will be completed this fall.

That decision, according to Richard Maullin, chairman of the State Energy Commission, could affect plans by Standard Oil of Ohio to convert a natural gas pipeline to ship Alaskan oil from the Port of Long Beach to the Midwest.

IN A LETTER to Carter, the governor declined to state a preference for either of two competing overland pipeline systems from Prudhoe Bay, Alaska, to Edmonton, Alta.

However, Brown indicated he prefers an overland pipeline system to a seaborne system proposed by El Paso Natural Gas Co. which would deliver liquefied natural gas (LNG) from Point Gravina, Alaska, to a terminal on the California coast.

The Brown decision contradicts a recommendation made Thursday by the State Lands Commission, and June 1 by the State Commission on Economic Development, that California should support the El Paso project.

Brown said a pipeline across Canada — with a "western leg" to deliver some North Slope gas to California — would be the best option in terms of time, money and the environment to bring Alaskan natural gas to the lower 48 states.

Two proposals — by the Arctic and Alcan pipeline companies — call for pipelines from the North Slope through Canada with tributaries to California.

THE THIRD proposal — by El Paso Natural Gas Co. — would employ tankers to bring the gas to Pt. Conception near Santa Barbara as LNG.

Federal law mandated that anyone — governors, municipalities, federal officers "and any other interested person" — submit their preferences to Carter by Friday. The President's decision on which of the three proposals he favors is due Sept. 1, subject to approval by Congress.

A report by federal agencies charged with evaluating the projects said the Alcan route, which would parallel the Alaska Highway and run through the Yukon, is preferred to the Arctic Gas route through the Mackenzie Delta, but only on environmental grounds.

The various agency comments released Friday correspond generally to a report issued in early May by the Federal Power Commission which favored an overland route but, again, failed to agree on either the Alcan or Arctic Gas proposal.

BROWN TOLD Carter the North Slope gas route selection and method of delivery "are of prime importance to California."

Maullin and other state energy officials said Friday they hope that gas from Mexico would help avoid a major natural gas shortage in Southern California.

In predicting a financing arrangement this fall, Maullin noted that negotiations between Pemex, the Mexican national oil and gas company, and Pacific Lighting Corp., were under way this week in Mexico City.

Maullin said the Mexican project, if successful, could affect plans of Sohio to convert an allegedly idle natural gas line to ship Alaskan oil from Southern California to the Midwest.

If Mexican gas could alleviate the Southern California gas shortage, gas companies and government agencies would have more time to consider proposed LNG terminals.

State officials have been working to help California get Mexican gas for several months without fanfare since Brown met April 23 with the president of Mexico.

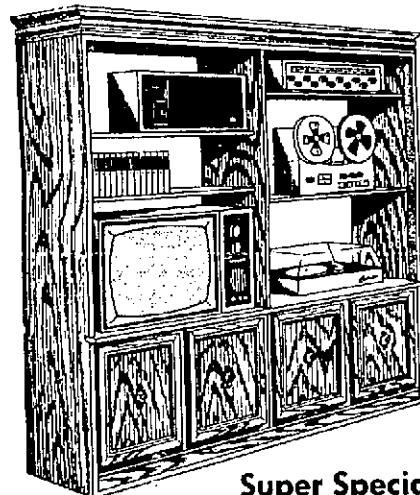

MAULLIN SAID he has traveled to Mexico in the Brown administration effort to be a midwife in Pacific Lighting's bid to purchase Mexican gas for its Southern California Gas Co. subsidiary.

"Our job now is to be a good market, and that means assisting in getting it set up," Maullin said. "It is not a foregone conclusion. There are many ways in which we could lose out. It requires an effort."

Maullin has purportedly provided Pacific Lighting with advice and information for its negotiations.

On Monday, the Canadian National Energy Board will release its decision on which of the transportation systems it favors.

Move to ban non-Christians from joining YMCA defeated

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Delegates to the World Council meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association have beaten back a proposal to ban non-Christians from joining YMCAs.

The proposal, supported by some African and Asian delegations, was defeated Thursday night after opposition from the 200-member U.S. delegation, the largest at the 68-nation meeting of 600 delegates.

"I am extremely pleased that we were able to avoid imposing this proposal on YMCAs around the world," Frederick Franklin, the Swedish vice president of the YMCA world body, said. "We don't want to discriminate against anybody."

After a two-hour debate, the delegates unanimously agreed to avoid a vote on the proposal. Instead, they formally received the proposal for further discussion at a future date.

YMCA sources at the seventh World Council meeting, the first in Latin America, said the parliamentary move killed the proposal at least until the 1981 meeting.

Some YMCA officials in Asia and Africa, where Christians are often in the minority, are concerned that the lack of tight membership regulations poses a threat to the Christian principles of the association.

"YMCA people in these nations are worried that other faiths may take over the YMCA for whatever purpose," said James Bellatti, a spokesman for the U.S. delegation.

"But, in the United States, where Christianity is a majority, we have membership open to anybody. We even have Jews on our boards," said Bellatti, co-publisher and editor of the Stillwater (Okla.) News-Press.

Non-Christian members have to "generally subscribe to the principles of Jesus Christ" before being accepted, he said.

A spokesman at the U.S. headquarters of the YMCA in New York City said 9 million persons are registered at YMCAs in the United States. He said 53 per cent are Protestants, 35 per cent Roman Catholic and 3 per cent Jewish.

The rest claim other religions or have no preference.

He said the World Council proposals were not necessarily binding on individual countries and that the membership of U.S. associations is "absolutely open."

Membership in the YMCA, founded in London in 1844, was originally limited to members of good standing in Evangelical churches, but was expanded in 1939 to include any man or boy. Four years ago in Uganda the world meeting pledged to open its doors to "people irrespective of faith as well as age, sex, race and social condition."

Friday's agenda focused on worldwide funding for the YMCA, which has movements in 87 countries and depends largely on membership dues. YMCA officials said it has become increasingly evident in recent years that the associations must look for new funding.

The officials said the World Council will probably seek to convince multinational corporations to make voluntary contributions to the YMCA, as many firms now do in the United States.

Confucius, a Chinese gentleman, based his doctrine on the code of the gentleman — learning, good behavior, ritual, obedience to the rules, respect for history and ancestors.

Lao Tzu, keeper of the royal archives and a rebel against Confucius, fled to the wilderness to develop a counter religion of living in accord with nature.

The stirring Bhagavad Gita, a basic scripture of Hinduism, defines the religious duties of a prince.

Moses was a semi-noble of the Egyptian Empire.

Mahomet was a merchant prince.

Christianity alone is concerned with poor people.

Mary, a peasant girl of an obscure village, had a mystical experience.

Would God choose a peasant kid instead of the lovely daughter of a king? That, according to the Gospels, is what happened.

Her husband, Joseph, was a carpenter. What does a carpenter do in an almost treeless country where houses were mostly stone and adobe? Perhaps he was a cabinet and furniture maker. That is only a guess. We may be sure he didn't make union wages in Nazareth.

We may be sure that the Prince of Peace didn't grow up like a prince. He probably did his share of hard labor and in his spare time went to the synagogue to read the sacred scrolls.

His ministry as a wandering rabbi, almost a hobo, was mostly to fishermen, peasants and farm women. He didn't scorn the rejected. His friends included a whore and — even more shameful — a tax collector. He didn't reject the rich and powerful either — but they tended to reject him.

And finally the terrible death on the Cross, a punishment reserved for rebel foreigners and slaves.

The Christianity that followed was like that in the earlier years — just poor people bound together by a great Vision. Perhaps only Paul had a touch of aristocracy. He was a learned man in both the Hebrew and Greek cultures. But when he got hungry he made tents.

It was inevitable that Christianity should gradually become aristocratic. The pagan religions and philosophies had reached intellectual dead ends. The new religion offered joy and meaning.

The Emperor Constantine, facing a battle, saw a Cross in the sky and the words, "In this sign conquer." Christianity became the religion of Europe.

There have been terrible things done in the name of Christ. The Church seemed — and still seems — to have departed in many ways from the teachings of the peasant rabbi.

But the truth remains. There have been Popes who were certainly less than saintly men — arrogant, tyrannical, lacking in Christian virtue. But they were "The servant of the servants of God."

They washed the feet of their brother prelates. They had not completely forgotten.

The first act of Pope John XXIII was to take the Mass to a Roman prison.

At all times in our history, no matter how bloodstained and ridiculous, there have been those who remembered our hobo rabbi. There was Brother Francis — now called St. Francis, although he would probably have rejected the honor. Facing a court because of his rebel views and actions, he stripped off all his aristocratic clothes and strode into the street naked. He had become the "Little Brother of the Poor." Who can forget St. Francis? He and his "hippy" friends tramped around doing good works and caring for the poor.

St. Louis, Crusader and King of France, could not forget. He lavished support on the Franciscans. The Church of San Luis Rey in San Diego County as well as the sin-riddled City of St. Louis, Mo., are named in his honor.

Always, in spite of crusades, inquisitions, persecutions, holy wars and bigotry, Christianity has cared for people. Where did our schools come from? Where did our hospitals come from?

The Society of Friends — the Quakers — pleaded for better treatment of the Indians. If they had been heeded, America would have had a better history.

The Puritans — grim religionists — civilized America. They founded schools and churches before the ground was broken and the Indians subdued. Colleges and universities sprang up.

There is always in Christianity this need to care for the poor. And that includes most of us in one way or another. All of us may need the help of our brothers and sisters some time.

That is why our cities are laden with hospitals and churches. That is why we have police and paramedics. That is why we care for each other as best we can.

Of course, it doesn't always work. We are all human beings, sinful and stupid.

But the Poor Boy Religion works better than most. I remember a grim story from Japan as the war was ending. A destroyer stopped a hospital ship from Truk, a bypassed island where the Japanese were left to starve. It was truly a hospital ship jammed with sick and dying men. As the ship approached the Japanese coast the Japanese officer volunteered to rope.

A Christian art treasury

ANY LOVER of art should take time to visit St. John's Episcopal Church, 511 W. Adams, near downtown Los Angeles. St. John's, founded in 1890, built and consecrated the present structure, a reproduction of 11th century church in Toscanella, Italy, in 1925. It is a combination of many art forms. There are Greek, Roman, Byzantine, Renaissance, German, Scandinavian and Italian art influences as well as modern American. The parish was formerly upper-class. Communicants lavished art treasures on their church. (Now more than half of the communicants are dark-skinned people from various parts of the world. At left, Janice Young, director of St. John's Well Child Center, stands beside the Font where she was baptised. The Font is made of a huge block of Botticini marble based on a block of Verona red marble. At center is the High Altar, a masterpiece of art styles. The Altar and the Sanctuary are breathtaking in their rich beauty. The Altar is seldom used. In keeping with modern trends, Communion is celebrated at a huge common table in the Nave. At right is the Mother of God in the Lady Chapel, which was formerly the Liberty Chapel in honor of the 192 men of St. John's who died in World War I. The chapel is in Byzantine mosaic. A student of art history and religion could spend many days studying the symbols and workmanship of St. John's.

Sunday Schools have problems

By James Robison
Chicago Tribune

Sunday schools aren't what they used to be:

— A stripper peels down to a G-string before 200 adults and children in a Richardson, Tex., church school, giving what she calls "a sermon using the exotic dance."

— Two hundred multi-colored school buses fan out across Chicago from a Hammond, Ind., church to gather 15,000 adults and children for what is called "The World's Largest Sunday School."

— Junior-high students in a St. Louis church are rapt as they view a graphic presentation of intercourse, masturbation, contraception, and homosexuality as part of a Sunday morning church school program.

These are unusual instances, but they illustrate that the Sunday school, a largely Protestant phenomenon involving more than 40 million Americans each week, has undergone some dramatic changes in its 200-year history.

It has gained added significance from President Carter's teaching of Sunday school classes in Plains, Ga., and Washington.

Sunday school is a tradition of religious education, generally an hour, each Sunday before or after the morning worship service. Catholics and Jews have followed the Protestant lead with Sunday school classes of their own.

J. Edgar Hoover once called the Sunday school a "crime prevention laboratory," and an Ivy League educator has said the church school period was "the most wasted hour of the week."

Ivy Leaguers apparently have not been the only ones periodically convinced of the worthlessness of Sunday schools. Some Sunday school students have thought so, too.

Enrollment in United Presbyterian church schools dropped 45 per cent during a 15-year period, from 1960 to 1975. Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod Sunday schools suffered a 34 per cent drop in the last decade. United Methodist church school enrollments fell 23 per cent since 1959.

Southern Baptists' churches lost more than half a million members from their Sunday school rolls for eight years prior to 1972, when enrollments once again began to climb.

Although there have been steep declines in mainline Protestant churches, there has been unparalleled growth in the more conservative, evangelical churches.

Conservative churches made up the bulk of last year's listing of the 100 largest and fastest growing Sunday schools across the nation, according to Christian Life magazine's annual survey. There was an average attendance of more than 2,350 each week in the survey churches, primarily Baptist, Nazarene, or Assembly of God congregations.

Clifford R. Raad, executive director of the Greater Chicago Sunday School Association, believes the boom in conservative Sunday schools is due largely to their providing firm answers to people in desperate search for meaning.

"The liberal church bodies are raising a lot of questions," he said, "but they're not providing the answers."

LETTERS

Fr. Kung

Felt I had to say something in regards to your piece on the opinions of Fr. Hane Kung.

Being a practicing and trying to be a good Catholic I am amazed always as to why so many of the secular papers seem to quote the dissident priests and nuns, those who are forever saying they are Catholic then writing such things that only prove they are not. Andrew Greeley, Raymond Brown, Fr. Curran who never take the word of the Pope only spout what they think he should do and say.

There are really so many good and holy priests and nuns who do wonderful work for the poor, the down trodden and the ill; it would be nice to see them quoted as so much of the time they have beautiful things to say.

Thank you for "listening." (Mrs.) Thelma Conley Long Beach

P.S. I read your page each Saturday. "Religiously."

Editor's note: News is the unusual. When a priest disagrees with the Pope, it's news. It is not news to say that people are doing their duty, behaving themselves and trying to be good citizens. Only when they go beyond the call of duty do they make news. News, good or bad, depends upon deviation from the usual norms.

About sin

This weekend our nation will celebrate its 201st anniversary.

This is a great nation — one that I've come to appreciate and love more each day. This is especially true when you've had the privilege of traveling — you appreciate America even more.

The "Good Book" says: Proclaim liberty throughout the land to all its inhabitants. Lev. 25:10

We need freedom from the disgusting twisting of truth from the gay community. Sin is still sin in the eyes of God — regardless how many mass meetings and marches are held.

We need to be freed from the twisted idea that anything is O.K. as long as there are "two consenting adults" — adultery and fornication are still sin in the eyes of God — regardless how many mass meetings and marches are held.

less how society wishes to rationalize and evade.

We need freedom from the filth and violence that is paraded in front of us as entertainment on TV and motion pictures.

We need freedom from corrupt officials, kickbacks, payolas, hush money, and just plain bribes paid by some of the biggest corporations in America to obtain business.

We need freedom to live and move in our cities without fear of being attacked and mugged. Growing disrespect for person and property is only enlarging this problem.

We need freedom from the foolish idea that you don't discuss politics and religion.

What this nation needs is the rebirth of real religion in the transforming power of Christ. Rather than being silenced through the doctrine of separation of church and state, we need to proclaim freely the gospel of Christ and call our nation to repentance and rebirth.

Here's to a great 4th of July as we proclaim God's truth to our nation!

Blessings,
Rev. Joe Nunziato

have watched with growing dismay the gradual deterioration of public morals and respect for law and order. Crime has become bolder and more vicious with the passing years, seemingly abated by the courts and the tricky maneuvering of our surfeit of lawyers, the lackadaisical short sighted legislators and politicians.

In cases such as you mention in your timely article in "Independent Press Telegram" Saturday, June 11th, in my opinion, your proposed treatment of these young punks would do more to rehabilitate, than some of this modern federal. You have started a good thing, keep it up.

I might add that this Old Scribbler (past 90 years) remembers the times when sympathy was for the victim, not for the parasitic criminal, and the latter's punishment was swift and "tough."

The fantastic idea we hear at times: that punishment does not deter, were it not for the fear of being caught and punished, our jails would be over crowded and perhaps even this writer and the reader could be among the tenants.

My best, and thanks for listening.

100 percenters

In reference to the letter of Patricia Block (6-8-77), my how I love those 100 percenters. In Deut. 21: 20-21 we learn that a drunken son is to be taken out and stoned to death. If that was the law today, the gravel companies should be hard put to haul enough rock, and with the stoning to death of adulterers, the companies just couldn't make it.

In Exodus 22:18, witches are to be put to death: "thou shalt not suffer a witch to live." In the New Testament, it is stated that where there are many women, there are many witches. Oh My, what cess pools of inequity our modern day retirement communities are. Some of them are over 80% women of which about one-third are widows.

For over 300 years during the late middle ages and early modern times, Europe was ablaze with the fires of these victims, most of whom were ugly

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman Vincent Peale

Positive Principle

Some months ago, I finished the manuscript of my 25th book and sent it off to my publisher together with a list of suggested titles. Shortly thereafter, the publisher telephoned me to say they liked the book and wanted to rush it to press as soon as possible but they were not quite satisfied with any of the titles I had suggested. And the title of a book is quite important to its success.

Then I heard, over the telephone, a list of titles the publisher had compiled, but none of them turned me on. So I suggested that both the publisher and I get together and see if we could arrive at a title which would be mutually satisfactory. When we had compiled new lists of possible titles, we met and made a final choice.

I spent a great deal of time struggling with this title problem: I enlisted the help of my family and friends. Eventually, I had a long list of titles. The publisher also devoted considerable effort to finding a solution to our mutual problem: endless lists of titles were circulated among the staff of the publishing house for comment and suggestions. As a result, when the time for our meeting arrived, there were two sheets of possible titles to be considered.

I handed the publisher's people my list: they gave me theirs. I went over their list and my face grew longer with each suggestion. I could hear them discussing my titles with an evident lack of enthusiasm. Obviously, we were making no progress.

"Well, let's look at this thing positively," one of them said. "Dr. Peale, what is the thing you stress most in this book?" "Why, positive thinking, of course, and that is what is needed today." The words were hardly out of my mouth before we were all looking at each other and trying to be the first to speak.

It took only a few moments for us to decide upon the title, "The Positive Principle Today," and it is under that title that my new book was published. And I am more convinced than ever, just as positive thinking solved the problem of a title for the book so it can solve most of the problems which we face each day.

Too many people permit themselves to be defeated by the everyday problems of life. They struggle and proceed negatively through their days with a continuing sense of resentment at the "bad breaks" life gives them. There may be "bad breaks" in our lives, but there is also a technique for controlling and determining the "breaks" we do get. None of us need allow ourselves to be defeated by the hard facts and difficulties of normal existence.

How can you continue to use the positive principle today? Here is a tested five-point program which has worked for many people. It will work for you also.

1. Believe in yourself; formulate and hold in your mind a picture of yourself as succeeding no matter how badly things may be going at the moment.

2. Whenever a negative thought concerning your personal ability comes to mind, cancel it out with a positive one.

3. Don't inflate the size of obstacles in your imagination; deflate them instead.

4. Ask God's guidance: remember that the Bible says, "If God be for us, who can be against us?"

5. Never build a case against yourself.

People, ideas

ned down by John Barley Corn. But when the cancer spread through his body and invaded both lungs, he was calm. He put his financial affairs in order, visited with friends and established a bar with the best whiskey in his hospital room. (What doctor would be so heartless as to tell him he could not drink at that late date?)

He talked only of the present — not the past which was gone or the future of which there was none in this world.

Lord grant that I may die as bravely as Sherm.

If you love the Bible... you'll love the Christian Science Reading Room. Here you'll find Bibles, concordances, commentaries, Bible Lessons, and a book that can help you understand the Scriptures as never before.

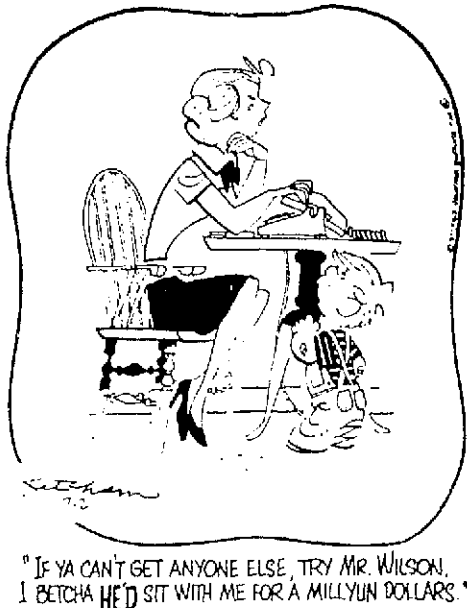

THE BIBLE WAS MEANT TO BE UNDERSTOOD

And it can be, through regular guided study. Our weekly Bible Lessons take subjects like "God," "Life," "Man," and explore them through selected Bible verses. Related passages from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy help to unlock the Bible's meaning.

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday
YOUR BIRTHDAY
TODAY: In an advancing mood, you're anxious to be done with the past, eager to take what you gathered thus far and step forth into the future. Spiritual growth, especially in the next three months, is more important than material gain. The last quarter-year promises prosperity. Relationships are unpredictable. Today's natives are magnetic, good conversationalists, thrifty. Those born this year have a streak of revolutionary spirit or delinquency that could create stress.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Moods stray off course, into extra costs. You gain more by listening to friends' problems than by cutting them off. If on the road, travel with utmost caution.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): If you must work, be strictly businesslike. A successful commercial deal is hard to make today. Renew contact with faraway people not heard from lately.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Surprise! People you thought you knew very well take unexpected action on both important and tiny matters. Avoid excess, overtime spent in games and sports.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): An offbeat trend throws light on what's bothering you, what might change things, lead elsewhere. Social moves are expensive, not as much fun as hoped.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Relationships are sensitive, hurt by differences of opinion. You overstate your side heavily, so people believe you're demanding more than you actually are.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Social contacts involve people who aren't as compatible among themselves as you'd like. Just because you happen to admire the lot cuts no ice with them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Even a simple PR effort to meet someone influential defeats itself. This is no day to take your ease to people in authority for intervention or advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Events have a dramatic quality. Collaborate with your own crowd. If you must go your way, leave the door open to return or so others can join you later.

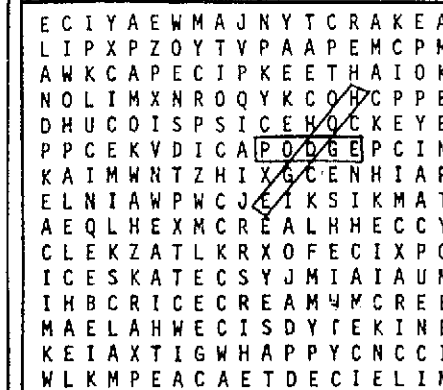

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Trying to please everybody is less productive than simple activity with friends who agree. Make a special effort to get to know in-laws a little better.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A feeling of being out of step is valid. You don't want to waste energy; conformity demands you go along with something boring. Find a reasonable balance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Aesthetic considerations take precedence over creature comforts. Avoid friction, say "no" softly if invited to functions you'd be unhappy attending.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Letting VIPs alone works both ways. You won't have to lay aside pleasures to cater to their whims. Friends have pet dreams; disillusion isn't your job.

Commercial paper volume to double by '82, exec says

Commercial paper, which already is creating a fundamental change in commercial banking and the money markets, will double to a volume of over $100 billion outstanding in five years, New York financial executive Theodore H. Silbert projects.

In a Los Angeles interview, Silbert said that commercial paper outstanding has grown to over $56 billion and now equals about 30 per cent of all commercial banks' outstanding industrial and commercial loans.

At year-end 1976, commercial paper equalled 28.6 per cent of all banks' industrial and commercial loans compared with 26.6 per cent a year earlier, 19.3 per cent at year-end 1967, 13 in 1965 and about 10.4 in 1960.

Expressed another way, Silbert said, from year-end 1965 to year-end 1976, outstanding commercial paper leaped upward 460 per cent — three times as fast as the 155 per cent rise for all banks' commercial and industrial loans. Since January, 1977, commercial paper outstanding has increased by nearly $5 billion, exceeding its growth in all of 1976.

COMMERCIAL paper is the term used to describe unsecured shortterm (less than nine-month maturity) promissory notes of corporations. Commercial paper is issued solely upon the issuing corporation's general credit.

Although in existence for 150 years, commercial paper recently has become a more attractive investment medium than many other money-market instruments, Silber said. Prime commercial paper sold by dealers currently carries rates that are about 7½ - 15 basis points (0.075 - 0.15 per cent) above the rates offered by money-center banks for large $100,000 and up certificates of deposit (CDs), he noted. (Money market rates, of course, vary daily.)

Besides the higher income yields to investors, Silbert said, commercial paper provides purchasers with flexibility in scheduling maturities to accommodate their needs. This also makes commercial paper desirable to corporate treasurers seeking to invest cash for short terms.

MOREOVER, since leading commercial banks such as New York's Citicorp bank currently peg their prime interest rates at about 1 1/4 percentage points above the average commercial paper rate, the treasures of credit-worthy corporations are finding it less costly to issue their own commercial paper.

Of course, Silbert said, certain administrative and distribution costs are incurred in selling commercial paper. Still, usually is less costly than other forms of borrowing for corporations which have earned good credit reputations and historical records for payment of their promissory notes.

Usually, Silbert noted, corporations which buy commercial paper schedule maturities to coincide with the payment of taxes, dividends, sinking funds, or other obligations. Colleges invest when they receive prepaid tuition and fees and time maturities to meet cash requirement

Approximately 800 corporations have already turned to issuing commercial paper including Standard Financial Corp., headed by Silbert, which has been selling commercial paper for over 22 years and is a direct issuer.

According to April, 1977, Federal Reserve figures, the total value of commercial paper outstanding had risen to $56.7 billion. Financial companies directly issued the largest segment of this total—a record $34.8 billion.

Most commercial paper is sold directly by the issuers in denominations usually ranging from $25,000 to $5 million, and with maturities from five to 270 days. Most issuers prefer not to sell commercial paper for less than five days, Mr. Silbert said.

Collect 17 hits in 10-5 rout

Dodger bats pound Giants

By Gordon Verrell
Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — Steve Yeager, in the midst of his finest season as a Dodger, figures he's got three chances of making the National League All-Star team — slim, none and fat.

"Sure, I'd love to make it, but I can't see any way of being there," he said after running his hitting streak to a career-high 10 games during the Dodgers' 10-5 blitz of the San Francisco Giants Friday night before 13,801 fans in Candlestick Park.

The Dodgers battered four San Francisco pitchers for 17 hits, matching their season high.

The win was the Dodgers' fifth in their last six games — and their ninth in a row at Candlestick over two seasons — to remain 8½ jumps ahead of Cincinnati in the National League West.

Steve Garvey cracked his 21st homer — matching his career high — and Ron Cey slugged his 17th.

Reggie Smith, rested after sitting out for two games, collected four of the Dodgers' hits, and took over the club batting lead at .313.

REGGIE SMITH had four hits in 10-5 victory over Giants.

the sixth inning when he took a foul tip in the groin, had two hits Friday, giving him 20 in his last 10 games. The streak has jumped his average from .253 to .292.

It was Yeager's triple in the fifth inning, when the Dodgers batted around to score five times, that produced the decisive run.

"It would be icing on the cake to make the All-Star team," he said. "But you have to figure that Garvey, Cey, Smith, probably Russell and maybe two pitchers will make the team from our club. That's six guys . . . and there goes me."

So the 29-year-old Yeager, in his sixth summer as the Dodger receiver, takes solace in what others say.

"Tommy Lasorda says I'm the best catcher he's seen in 30 years," he says with pride. "and the other night in Atlanta, Andy Messersmith told me I HAD to make the All-Star team 'cause I was the best catcher in the league."

Yeager popped a triple and double before he was forced out of the games, two of the 10 extra base hits in the free-swinging struggle.

Bill Madlock clubbed two homers off winning pitcher Doug Rau, accounting for four of the Giants' runs.

His first homer, a three-run shot in the third inning, gave San Francisco a 3-0 advantage.

The Dodgers came right back in the fourth inning to score twice, on a single by Dusty Baker, double by Yeager and two-out triple by Dave Lopes.

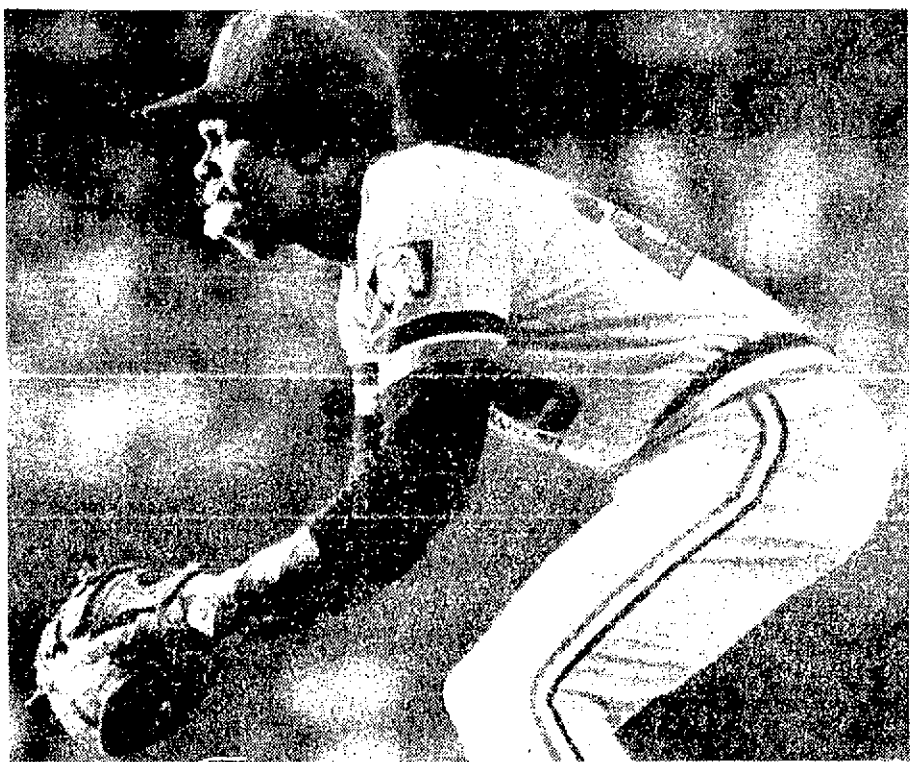

They put it away an inning later. Cey slammed a two-run homer. Yeager tripled home two runs and Lopes singled home the fifth.

Garvey hit his home run in the ninth inning, his 12th homer in his last 20 games, and he remains second in the NL in RBI with 70, one behind the Reds' George Foster.

Rau hurled eight innings for his eighth win in nine decisions and Mike Garman pitched a flawless ninth.

"We just didn't want to take any chances with Doug," said

Zisk gives Chisox fans plenty to cheer about

Associated Press

"I think our guys got a feeling of what it's like to be in the playoffs," said Richie Zisk. "That was real playoff atmosphere out there."

Zisk, who came from the Pittsburgh Pirates and knows something about being in playoffs, responded with a pair of home runs, drove in five runs and led the Chicago White Sox to a 5-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins Friday night and into first place by a game in the American League West.

Zisk was given standing ovations not only after his homers in the first and third innings but also in the fifth and eighth innings after striking out both times.

"I can't put it into words, it's fantastic," said Zisk. "The crowd has taken to me and I appreciate it."

I only hope I can keep it up. It's September in July."

The crowd of 35,709 stood roaring in the ninth inning, shouting "We're No. 1, We're No. 1!" and let out its loudest ovation when Chris Knapp retired the Twins in order and got Rod Carew to pop out to end the game.

Carew came into the contest with a .411 average and remained there as he tripled across a run in the first and singled in the third before making out his last three times at bat.

"If we played our best the game would be tied 2-2," said Minnesota manager Gene Mauch, discounting Chicago's three runs in the first inning on a bunt single by Alan Bannister, a bouncing double by Jorge Orta and Zisk's homer, which was aided by a strong wind.

Vida blanks Angels, runs Anaheim win skein to 12

By Tracy Ringolsby
Staff Writer

On July 20, 1969, the world knew it was witnessing a historic event when the United States landed men on the moon for the first time.

Little, however, did the 17,835 fans, who showed up for the Angels game with Oakland that Sunday appreciate what they witnessed. The Angels beat Vida Blue, 7-3, in his major league debut.

That was the only loss Blue has suffered at Anaheim Stadium. Friday night, the A's lefthander ran his Anaheim win streak to 12 in a row, five-hitting the Angels and leading Oakland to a 2-0 win.

"Things have worked out that way for no real reason, but I'm glad they have," said Blue, who ironically has only three wins in 12 decisions against the Angels at Oakland. "I like the mound here, because of its slope, and that may have something to do with it."

Intimidation may help Blue a bit too when he goes up against the Angels, who have to wonder if they can ever beat him at Anaheim.

"If that is what has been working I hope it continues," said Blue, who gets to pitch against the Angels in the finale of the current five-game series on Tuesday.

"But right now, I don't think I've been intimidating anyone."

"I think most batters are running off the bench, trying to hit against me the way I have been pitching."

Blue should say the way he had been pitching. He has won three in a row, allowing only two runs during that spell and raising his record to 6-9.

Angel of day

"I was pitching poorly before," said Blue. "I was getting behind hitters and the few times I would get ahead of them I would make a poor pitch."

The Angels and Texas both spent hours trying to trade for Blue before the June 15 deadline. But A's owner Charlie Finley wanted more than either team felt he was worth.

All that talk, Blue admits, may have bothered him.

"I thought I was going to be taking a trip somewhere," he said. "It is good to finally know you are going to be pitching in one place."

The only thing that bothered Blue Friday was the fielding of second baseman Marty Perez. Blue faced only two serious Angel scoring threats, both with the aide of Perez.

In the first inning, Gil Flores led off for the Angels with a grounder, which went through Perez's legs. With one out, Bobby Bonds walked and the Angels had runners on first and second before Don Baylor flied out and Dave Chalk forced Bonds at second.

After Mario Guerrero singled to lead off the fifth, Thad Bosley hit a grounder to shortstop Rob Picciolo. Picciolo threw to Perez, for what appeared to be a double play. But Perez dropped the ball.

The only other Angel runner to get past first was Flores, who singled with one out in the third, stole second and went to third on Jerry Remy's ground out before Bonds flied out.

While Perez was causing Blue headaches, Picciolo was saving him with stellar defensive efforts.

Crum said 'sitting on' Bruin offer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — University of Louisville basketball coach Denny Crum said late Friday he has been offered the top job at UCLA to succeed Gene Bartow and is "sitting on it," but will announce a decision soon, a local sports-caster reported.

"Crum returned from Los Angeles late tonight and confirmed during an interview that he's been offered the job," Van Vance of WHAS here reported. "He said he would take into consideration his lifestyle and other things that would have to change and said he would talk it over with his family," Vance said.

Earlier Vance had quoted "a source close to the U of L coach" as saying Crum has the job if he wants it.

"I get the same information from sources in the Los Angeles area," the Louisville Courier-Journal reported in the newspaper's Saturday morning editions.

"I have been told that UCLA athletic director J.D. Morgan asked his U of L counterpart Dave Hart for permission to talk with Crum last week at a convention," Billy Reed wrote in the Courier-Journal.

The newspaper report also said Crum spent "a couple of days in Los Angeles this week, talking to Morgan and a steering committee."

Reed quotes "a newspaper colleague in Southern California" as saying Crum wants "a lot more than Bartow got in salary and fringe benefits."

"Crum supposedly has until Tuesday to make up his mind," Reed added.

"I have talked to Crum in Los Angeles," Morgan told the Los Angeles Associated Press bureau Friday night. "He was here, but

'A fairy tale' come true for Virginia Wade

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Virginia Wade, the English archdeacon's daughter, won her first Wimbledon tennis title at age 31 Friday in front of Queen Elizabeth and a wildly happy, singing British crowd.

She came from behind, put some pattern into a ragged match and defeated the tall Dutch woman, Betty Stove, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Hundreds of fans had slept on the sidewalks all night for standing room. The center court has seen better finals, but nothing quite as emotional.

For the crowd, it was the perfect climax to the century's Wimbledon tournament and an unexpected extra item in the queen's silver jubilee celebrations. They waved union jacks, cheered the queen and Virginia, and sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" as the champion held the silver winner's plate aloft.

Miss Wade finally triumphed after 15 years of frustration and failure at Wimbledon.

"It was like a fairy tale," she said. "There was the queen handing me the trophy, and the people were all cheering and singing. I couldn't believe what was happening."

Plenty of British women won Wimbledon during its first 50 years, when there were few overseas entries, but Virginia was only the fourth British woman champion of the second 50 years. The others were Dorothy Round, 1934 and 1937; Angela Mortimer, 1961, and Ann Jones, 1969.

The men's final today winds up singles play with Bjorn Borg of Sweden defending his crown against top-seeded Jimmy Connors.

Miss Wade did not approach her level of play in defeating Chris Evert, the defending champion, in the semifinals. But in the 32-year-old Miss Stove, she opposed a very different kind of player.

The Dutch woman stands 6-foot-1 and has a reach that seems to cover half the court. As usual, she played in fits and starts and broke up the rhythm of the match.

It's memory time at Los Alamitos tonight

Dash For Cash duels in Vessels Maturity

It's memory time at Los Alamitos Race Course tonight as the nation's finest quarter horse track honors its founders with the $100,000 Vessels Maturity, a 440-yard dash exclusively for four-year-olds.

The late Frank Vessels Jr. fashioned this race to honor the memory of his parents, Frank and Grace Vessels. It was the elder Vessels who launched quarter horse racing in Southern California with Sunday afternoon, non-betting races on a skimpy track he created outside his back door.

The Sunday affairs were held in the late 1940's. Then, in 1951, Los Alamitos was granted pari-mutuel racing dates and the very first meeting was held that December, an 11-day run.

Vessels Sr. built Los Alamitos without the aid of outside financing and it wasn't until a new clubhouse was created that he allowed stock to be sold in his venture.

Today Los Alamitos stands as the finest small track in the world and in total mutuel play and attendance it is No. 1 among all quarter horse tracks.

Sure to go favored in the Vessels Maturity tonight is a four-year-old colt with blazing speed, Dash For Cash. Well named, this son of Rocket Wrangler has collected $243,347 so far this year while notching 10 victories in 12 starts with seconds in the other two races.

In the Maturity Trials (the 10 fastest qualified), Dash For Cash zipped 440 yards in 21:76 to win by more than a length. It was his first race since last December when he won the Champion of Champions Stakes and set a track record of 21:18, shattering the old mark of 21:49 set 13 years ago by Jet Deck.

Jerry Nicodemus was scheduled to ride Dash For Cash, but was injured in a spill at Ruidoso Downs. Jerry Burgess will fly in to replace Nicodemus in the saddle.

Regardless, Dash For Cash still is expected to be an overwhelming favorite. Twenty-two times this chestnut stallion has gone postward and 18 times he has come away a winner, earning more than $350,000 along the way.

Top challengers to Dash For Cash appear to be A Zure Request and Flashy Go Moore. The latter was supplemented to the Maturity at a cost of $6,500, which he can easily afford. Thus far this year he has banked more than $33,000. With Don Allison aboard, Flashy Go Moore got home first in the first Maturity Trial by a length in 21:99.

A Zure Request was second to Dash For Cash in the trial but two weeks earlier he scored impressively over Flashy Go Moore in the Chicaco V Invitational Handicap, running 400 yards in 19:84. The meet's leading trainer Blane Schvaneveldt conditions this son of Azure Te and Kenny Hart does the riding.

Completing tonight's Maturity field are Native Creek, Charter Party, He Flies, Mystery Te, China Doll Su, Dickey's Shane and Southern Gentlemen. And, nobody goes away empty-handed. The prizes range from $45,000 to the winner down to $1,000 for 10th and last.

In order to net a profit on his $6,500 supplemental payment, Flashy Go Moore will have to finish at least fourth. That spot pays $7,000.

When Frank Vessels Jr. created this race, he readily admitted stealing the idea from Santa Anita's Strub Stakes. That one is named for the founder of the Arcadia track, Dr. Charles H. Strub and is run at a mile and one-quarter for four-year-olds. The race was originally created by Webb Everett and named then the Maturity.

"The only change we made," said Frank, "was to shorten the race by a mile. It's the last 440 yards that really matter in racing, you know."

Frank Jr.'s widow, Millie, now president of Los Alamitos, and their son, Frank (Scoop) Vessels, will be in the winner's circle tonight to present the Vessels Maturity trophy to the victor.

Seattle Slew attracts six foes for Hollypark debut

Triple Crown winner Seattle Slew drew six foes for his favored bid to win the $184,900 winner's purse Sunday in the $316,400 Swaps Stakes at Hollywood Park.

The undefeated 3-year-old seeks his 10th career victory and the half dozen foes of the same age don't appear able to put up much of a deterrent in the 1 1/4-mile test.

The Slew breaks from the No. 2 gate and in No. 4 will be the colt expected to give him the most competition. J. O. Tobin who was the champion 2-year-old in England a year ago and finished fifth in the Preakness this spring after coming to the United States.

Seattle Slew won the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and the Belmont Stakes for his Triple Crown, but in the Swaps he must carry the high weight of 126 pounds with regular jockey Jean Cruguet.

There was some speculation that the Hollywood Park track might not be to Seattle Slew's liking, but that suggestion didn't last long. After workouts here, his board of strategy announced the colt fit and ready.

The champion has earned $717,720 in his nine-career and his owners say he'll be campaigned again next year rather than going stud.

In post position order, the field for the Swaps has Affiliate, 114; Seattle Slew, 126; Text, 120; J. O. Tobin, 120; Mr. Red Wing, 114; White Sprite, 114, and Minnesota Gus, 114.

As a Friday warmup, Seattle Slew galloped a mile and then was schooled in the paddock for what trainer Billy Turner termed a "learning experience."

Said the trainer, "We just wanted him to see what it was like and to check the time required to get there. He looked around quite a bit, but nothing bothered him. It never does."

The meeting's biggest crowd, about 65,000, is expected for the champion 3-year-old's debut on the West Coast.

There was conjecture if the six opponents actually figured to beat Seattle Slew or were entered because of the high priced awards for finishing behind him. Second place is worth $60,000, third $38,000 fourth $18,000, and fifth $7,500.

Slew has been established as the 2-5 morning line favorite. J. O. Tobin was listed second choice at 5-2. Other odds were 8-1 on Text, 15-1 on Affiliate, 20-1 on Mr. Red Wing and 30-1 on both White Sprite and Minnesota Gus.

Four 'breeze' into lead in golf tourney

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mike Morley, Keith Ferguson, Fuzzy Zoeller and Gary McCord, all of whom teed off after morning gales had tapered, forged three-under-par 69s Friday and shared the first round lead in the $130,000 Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

The quartet finished the round, postponed Thursday because of a downpour, one stroke ahead of Mac McLendon and Ed Sabo. Each of the top six except McLendon started in the afternoon, and by that time winds which earlier had gustied to 37 miles per hour, had calmed somewhat.

"The wind was real tough, to say the least," Morley said. "But by about the 12th hole, it seemed to calm a little. Those of us who played this afternoon got a definite break."

"The wind didn't seem to blow half as hard this afternoon," said McCord, who finished second to Art Wall in this tourney in 1975. "The wind bothered guys the most on the greens. The morning players couldn't get set over their putts, but this

Foreman determined not to play for Vikings; may try television

Associated Press

Running back Chuck Foreman, frustrated by an 18-month battle to renegotiate his contract with the Minnesota Vikings, may wind up in a television booth next season.

"Television is a major option," attorney Tom Reich said Friday night about Foreman's willingness to give up football if necessary.

"Without a question, Chuck is willing to sacrifice money for principle," continued Reich, who is Foreman's legal liaison with the Vikings.

Foreman, en route to Maryland for a holiday family reunion, could not be reached for comment on the latest developments in his contract impasse with Minnesota.

"It's not a question of Chuck sitting out one year," said Minnesota general manager Mike Lynn. "It's a matter of three years."

Foreman is contractually obligated through the next two seasons with an option year in 1979.

"He's got more than one alternative," continued Lynn. "Chuck can play for the contract which he signed, or the contract which was offered to him which is a two-year extension of his present contract with an option year. The line of communications are still open between the club and Foreman."

Higuchi shoots 68, leads ladies

LACHUTE, Que. (AP) — Little Chuko Higuchi overcame gusty winds and came through with a flawless back nine to shoot a four-under-par 68 Friday and take the first-round lead in the $80,000 Peter Jackson Classic, the only Canadian event on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

Miss Higuchi held a

Reich, in a telephone interview from his Pittsburgh home, disagreed.

"An impasse was reached about six months ago and it has only deteriorated since then," he said. "Chuck has reached the point where an economic settlement won't resolve the matter."

In four pro seasons, Foreman has rushed for 3,802 yards, caught 218 passes for 2,206 yards and scored 57 touchdowns.

Gas leak hamper's Magoon's start

Bob Magoon got off to a sputtering start Friday in his attempt to set a record for crossing the Atlantic Ocean in a power boat.

Thirty miles out of Cadiz, Spain Magoon reported a leak in a gasoline tank after starting his projected 3,435-mile trip in rainy weather.

A Magoon spokesman ashore said a private DC3 plane was trailing the Miami, Fla. eye surgeon but there was no indication the run would be aborted.

Magoon, who has a crew of two in his racing outboard, expects to fix the tank at a refueling stop in the Portuguese Azores. He hopes to make the trip to Newport, R.I. in 70 hours and reach the U.S. by Monday, July 4.

Harvard beaten in Henley Regatta

Washington and Cornell won heats races, but Harvard was eliminated by Irish Garda by a quarter of a length Friday in the Grand National Cup at the Henley Royal Regatta.

The Irish crew, which included four Olympians, held on to win in 7 minutes, 7 seconds over the one-mile, 550-yard course on the River Thames.

Garda will meet Washington and IRA champion Cornell clubs on Britain's national champions, the Leander Club, in today's semi-finals.

Orange Coast College of Newport, coxed by freckle-faced coed Terri Murray in her stocking feet, reached the semis of the Ladies Plate.

BRIEFLY: A Kansas City lawyer, Donald Fehr, has confirmed he's going to replace Richard Moss as the attorney for the Major League Baseball Players Association. Al Unser wheeled his Parnelli-Cosworth around the Mosport, Ont. 2.45-mile course in record time Friday in preparation for Sunday's race for Indianapolis-type cars. Unser averaged 115 miles an hour. Official qualifying is today. The sixth annual United States-Russian junior two-day track meet begins today at the University of Richmond. The European Broadcasting Union said Friday that stiff financial demands by the Lake Placid, N.Y. Olympic Organizing committee might prevent European TV coverage of the 1980 Winter Games.

Problem is parents, says Capt. Kangaroo

SAN JOSE (KNS) — Bob Keeshan leaned forward, poured another glass of California burgundy and talked about what he knows best—children's television.

In that field, his vantage point is unique. As Capt. Kangaroo, he has been on the air for the last 22 years while other kids' shows have come and gone, and while debates over violence have raged and waned. Here to film a couple of segments at Marine World, the ruddy-faced, curly-haired (his TV mop is a hair-piece), gentle-voiced network starlet fly with candor at current kid-view controversy.

"The problem is parents and the way parents use television," he said, crossing his ankles, sockless above tennies. "Shows like 'Capt. Kangaroo' and 'Misterogers' and 'Sesame Street'—despite the fact that we get a lot of publicity for what we do—are not very popular shows. You never read very much about Bugs Bunny or the Three Stooges or the Roadrunner, but those shows are watched by more kids.

"The point I make, really, is that parents are the ones who determine the kind of television children have."

"A show is on the air because a lot of children watch it, and when a lot of children don't watch it the show will go off the air."

"So, a lot of children are watching these shows. And they're watching with the endorsement of their parents, whether a parent explicitly says, 'Go watch that show,' or implicitly endorses it by saying, 'I'm busy—go turn on the television set.'"

He sighed. "Television and its use as a babysitter is a device to relieve parents from a responsibility they don't want to take. Pressure on network executives or station managers would not be necessary if parents were parents. That would change all of children's television."

Complaints about kids' TV don't usually fall on Keeshan's shoulders. His show isn't violent. It doesn't exploit. And neither does criticism hit him personally, despite media attention. As one public relations person murmured, "You hear as many bad things about Capt. Kangaroo as you do about Bing Crosby."

Does that mean he practices what he preaches? "Well, I preach what I practice," he grinned. "We've raised three kids. We have good relationships with them. We have good times together, as we've always had."

Ever have to control their TV time? "That's not really the point. You don't say simply, 'Don't watch television.' That leaves a vacuum. You have to fill it with something."

"Television is no competition for an active parent. If a parent wants to spend some time with a child, the child will abandon that television set tomorrow."

And, with that, Capt. Kangaroo went off to shake hands with a chimp.

Showdown in Jaycee ban on women due

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A showdown is expected in the U.S. Jaycees next year over its ban on women members, says an officer of the San Diego chapter which has taken in three women.

Despite an overwhelming vote for the ban two years ago, a study commission has granted several options for chapters as long as women members never seek national office.

A local committee on women membership says in a memo: "If our purpose is to train young people in local community leadership, we are doing only half the job without women members."

The issue is not before the Jaycees this year but Jim Spievak, newly elected president of the San Diego chapter, said he will try to put it on the 1978 convention agenda. Smaller U. S. city chapters want the ban continued, he said.

"We are not asking that every chapter be forced to admit women but that local chapters who so wish may admit women," Spievak.

LBSU to get $1.6 million for new science building

By Walt Murray
Staff Writer

Long Beach State University will receive $1,600,000 from the new state budget for equipment for its science building addition and its industrial technology building, university officials said Friday.

The money was allocated in the 1977-78 state budget which Gov. Brown signed into law Thursday.

The budget also includes $83,000 for working drawings for Long Beach lab facilities for the Southern California Ocean Studies Consortium. The lab will be used by LBSU and four other local colleges.

Another $28,459 was set aside to pay a director and for security and maintenance of the university system's Desert Studies Center at Soda Springs near Baker.

LBSU was allocated $50,900,000 in the new budget, up about $1.3 million from last year. Dominguez Hills State College received $15,400,000, a $200,000 increase.

The California State University and College (CSUC) system got a total $637,804,000.

Dr. Glenn S. Dumke, CSUC chancellor, gave the budget mixed reviews.

He said it provides adequately for basic programs of the college system and grants money for teaching innovation and student enrollment shifts into higher cost programs.

"Though we will continue lacking provisions for remedial instruction, we are enabled to proceed with a testing program that is vital to our goal of strengthening student writing skills," Dumke said.

The Legislature had approved $270,000 for writing skills tests for freshmen and another $500,000 for remedial programs for students with low scores. But Brown canceled the remedial programs.

Funds for such classes should come from regular college budgets, Brown said. He suggested that elective courses be cut to make the money available.

Dumke also expressed dissatisfaction with Brown's trims of employee pay hikes.

"While we were successful in persuading state government officials that an initially proposed 2.2 per cent faculty compensation increase was wholly unrealistic, the final 5 per cent allocation is disappointingly short of the 8.5 per cent increase sought by the trustees," Dumke said.

He also was unhappy about a cut of $1 million for state funding of instruction-related activities such as drama and journalism that are now mostly financed by student-body fees.

"This represents an area where we must continue to seek additional financing," Dumke said.

Public parking lot lease OK'd for HB

By Bob Sanders
Staff Writer

After several years of controversy over public access to portions of the exclusive Huntington Harbour development in Huntington Beach, the State Lands Commission has approved a lease for a public parking lot on slightly more than a half-acre.

Approval of the 49-year lease to the city represents the last phase of development at the water-oriented community, which occupies former marshlands. The parking lot, plus public beach and greenbelt areas, are expected to settle the controversy.

Under an arrangement worked out by the city and the Huntington Harbour Corp. and approved last week, the city will take over a 0.658-acre parcel on the west side of the peninsula. The corporation will receive in exchange a similar parcel on the east side.

The question of how much access the general public would have to beaches within the development has been a controversial issue for almost all of Huntington Harbour's 10-year history.

Several parks and green-belt areas have been allocated for public use, including a large park on the main peninsula and a smaller one on Trinidad Island, which is now being developed with private homes and a commercial shopping center.

The Trinidad Island project, the last phase of Huntington Harbour development, includes a green-belt area along the beach, a fishing pier and a public walkway around half of the island.

The new city parking lot will be built at the end of Edinger Avenue on property that was declared excess because the Lands Commission did not need it for the harbor channel.

Huntington Harbour, in the westernmost part of Huntington Beach, has approximately 3,400 homes, most costing well over $100,000, a population of almost 9,000 people and about 3,000 boat slips.

It was built on 878 acres of once publicly owned marshlands, and public access to its waterfront has stirred almost continual controversy since its beginning.

HEAVY TRAFFIC CLOGGED SAN DIEGO FREEWAY NEAR 605 FREEWAY FRIDAY

Getaway-day traffic 'not bad'

By Mark Gladstone
Staff Writer

Friday was not the typical start of a three-day Fourth of July holiday on Southland freeways.

Maybe people had their fill of Independence Day last year — the Bicentennial. Maybe people are waiting until today to leave town. Maybe they left early.

Or maybe they are going to enjoy the holiday at home.

One place crowds were not Friday evening was on the freeways.

A 100-mile survey of the Long Beach, Riverside, San Diego, Santa Ana Newport and San Gabriel River freeways found bumper-to-bumper traffic in only two spots: on the southbound San Diego Freeway between the Cherry Avenue off-ramp and the San Gabriel Freeway shortly after 5 p.m., and on the Riverside Freeway in Fullerton at about 5:30 p.m.

But both looked no worse than typical rush-hour traffic.

And on most stretches of road cars were traveling at or above the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit. In traveling 100 miles during more than two hours, only four Highway Patrol cars could be spotted.

The CHP recently has been conducting a voluntary campaign for motorists to comply with the 55-mph limit.

According to CHP Commissioner Glen Craig, in May an analysis of statewide speeds showed motorists traveling at an average of 54.9 miles per hour, a half-mile an hour lower than in April. That drop in speeds "saved an estimated 20 lives in CHP areas of responsibility," Craig said this week.

On Friday evening, freeway speeds seemed to be exceeding that May average.

Only a relatively few persons were driving large motorhomes or campers rigged for a holiday weekend. There were only a couple of cars hauling motorcycles and trailers.

Only one boat, about a 20-foot sailboat, was being towed northbound on the San Diego Freeway in Orange County.

There were only a few signs of the upcoming holiday — a stand selling fireworks or an occasional American flag flying near the freeway.

Despite the survey, the CHP said Friday night that traffic was heavy. No major accidents were reported.

Under pressure from its personnel commission, the Bellflower school board has reversed an earlier action that altered administrative duties.

The board's original action removed purchasing duties from Controller Henry Ferguson and placed them under Business Services Administrator Michael O'Bric. The trustees said they made the switch to speed the flow of information between the board and the administration.

The personnel commissioners argued that changing the responsibility for purchasing represented a major shift in administrative roles. They maintained that O'Bric's position was sufficiently altered to require rescreening applicants for his job.

Last week the commissioners hired a private attorney to represent them. The school board said no rescreening was necessary. On Monday they stripped the commission of its job screening duties.

At a special meeting Thursday night, however, the board reversed itself in what Chairman Richard Vermillion characterized as a conciliatory gesture. It returns purchasing to Ferguson's department.

"We were surprised at all the turmoil this caused," Vermillion said. "We felt we did the right and proper thing in the first place, but we didn't want to circumvent the commission. Now at least we've calmed the waters."

The three-man commission rules on personnel matters for the district's 600 nonteaching employees.

In other action at Thursday's meeting, the school board announced that their counterproposal to the teachers' proposed contract will be available to the public after 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Eight-cent increase School-budget rate hike

By Kris Sherman
Staff Writer

A tentative, $45.9-million budget that calls for an 8-cent hike in the property tax rate is scheduled for ratification by the ABC Unified School District Board of Education next week.

But according to district officials, the status of the tax rate will be up in the air until the State Legislature acts on pending school finance legislation — probably after the tax rate already has been set.

Superintendent of Schools Eugene Tucker said the 1977-78 fiscal year budget, which received tentative approval from the board during a special meeting last week, will be scrutinized further before the final version is adopted.

Tuesday's meeting, postponed a day because of the July 4 holiday, is scheduled to convene at 7:30 p.m. in the board room, 16700 Norwalk Blvd., Cerritos.

Though the tentative budget calls for an estimated tax rate of $5.38 per $100 of assessed valuation, Tucker said the board has ordered school officials to find ways the rate can be cut before it is adopted.

(The district's $43.7-million budget for the 1976-77 fiscal year called for a tax rate of $5.30 per $100 of assessed valuation.)

Tucker added, however, that increased efforts to slash spending will not completely solve the board's dilemma because the district faces a conflict caused by state-imposed deadlines.

On one hand, he explained, the board is required by state law to adopt the budget and set the tax rate by mid-August. On the other hand, he added, the prospects of action by the State Legislature on school finance reform are bright — but not until after the board adopts the budget.

Southland's 4th — parades, fireworks and 5 tons of snow

Monday's Fourth of July holiday may not be celebrated with the fervor of last year's Bicentennial, but there still will be plenty to do.

Southland residents will be able to pick from watching parades and fireworks to cooling off with five tons of snow.

The snow is being delivered Monday for two toboggan runs at La Mirada Regional Park.

If the cold isn't suitable, the National Weather Service says temperatures on the sands on the floor of Death Valley soared to 188 Friday and will stay near that through the weekend. Air temperatures will be around 120.

MOST SPOTS won't be as hot as Death Valley nor as cool as the snows of La Mirada. The weather service expects highs in the mid-70s to low 80s in the Long Beach area through the holiday weekend. On Friday the high in Long Beach was 82. Beaches will have night and morning low clouds with afternoon highs in the 60s during the weekend.

Officials at major recreational spots predict large crowds all weekend. Campgrounds at the beaches and mountain recreation areas were reported full or near capacity.

Unusually dry brush created a special fire hazard in national forests. Last year fireworks caused 236 fires in those areas. Individuals with fireworks where they're illegal, such as in Long Beach, risk fines from $500 to $1,000.

For fireworks fans, two traditional displays will occur Monday night.

LONG BEACH'S free 40-minute display will be set off at 9 p.m. from the south side of the Long Beach Arena near Shoreline Drive. The second display is the 20th annual show in Veterans Stadium, also at 9 p.m. Admission is $1.

One of the major activities Monday will be the 73rd annual Fourth of July parade at Huntington Beach. The Long Beach Mounted Police will lead the parade that starts at 10 a.m. at the triangle intersection of Fifth Street, Main Street and Frankfort Avenue in the downtown area and heads north on Main. Officials expect 200,000 spectators.

Other Southland activities on Monday include:

—An old-fashioned carnival including games, entertainment and food from 3 until 9 p.m. at Artesia Park, 18750 Clarkdale Ave., Artesia.

—A block party in the 3500 block of Knoxville Ave., Long Beach, with 100 children parading on decorated bikes starting at 10:45 a.m.

In Downey today, the annual Community Fair and Carnival will continue at Warren High School, Paramount Boulevard and De Palma Street.

In Bellflower today, a special Independence Day celebration starts at 10 a.m. at 15900 Bellflower Blvd.

Meet Your Police program sponsors public meetings

Meet Your Police, Long Beach Police Department program that presents patrol officers to interested citizens, is sponsoring public meetings this month as follows:

July 12, 7 p.m., North Facilities Center, 6335 Myrtle Ave.; July 13, 7 p.m., 1703 Lemon Ave.; July 14, 7:30 p.m., North Facilities Center; July 20, 7:30 p.m., 101 E. 28th St.; July 25, 7:30 p.m., Community Hall, 1000 Via Wanda; July 26, 7:30 p.m., Silverado Park, 3100 Silverado Ave.; July 27, 10:30 a.m., Latter Day Saints Church, 3701 Elm Ave., and July 28, 7:30 p.m., West Facilities Center, 2125 Santa Fe Ave.

QM drops $1 parking, reinstates boarding fee

Visitors to the Queen Mary will no longer have to pay $1 for parking. The privilege will be free.

Long Beach city officials disclosed the new policy at the same time they announced resumption of a 50-cent boarding fee. The changes became effective Friday.

The boarding charge will be effective only during the daytime and will not apply to hotel guests aboard the ship or persons attending meetings and banquets.

Randall Verrue, acting director of the city's new tidelands agency, said the city will no longer pay the harbor department approximately $250,000 a year to rent the 2,300-car parking lot.

In effect, the city will be relieved of part of its overhead costs in operating the tourist attraction, which has been losing about $2 million a year.

The boarding charge was dropped three or four years ago, but Verrue said officials believe its reinstatement will encourage more people to take the ship's paid tour. He denied that it would reduce overall patronage of the vessel.

Without the boarding charge, he said, visitors who weren't taking the tour were, in effect, getting a "free look at parts of the ship. We presume people go to see what's there. Now they have to pay for it."

Update: They're udderly contented Cows find their bras uplifting

By Brad Altman
Staff Writer

Once upon a time in Conover, Wis., there lived a cow with a drooping udder.

William Tamm, strolling through the pasture, noticed that the cow's milk-laden udder was dragging on the ground.

"You need a brassiere," Tamm said.

"Mon," the cow replied.

Being a country boy, born and reared in the dairy state, Tamm knew that udders are suspended only by a few ligaments and skin, and they can weigh as much as 80 pounds.

He thought and thought.

He tied cotton webbing, nylon mesh and string lacings around the cow's udder. Twice a day the garment was removed and the cow was milked.

Many years passed. The cow was content and produced lots of milk.

By and by, Tamm had another brainstorm: "I shall enter the cow lingerie business."

Local folks liked the giant bras, called the Tamm Udder Support.

Tamm retired and his daughter, Dorothy Rice, took over the family business.

Dorothy, now president of Franksville Specialty Co., began advertising the Tamm Udder Support nationally in 1975.

How's business today? "Just fine," Dorothy said recently. She was reached by telephone at her Conover factory, on Route 1, Conover, Wis., 54519. The factory manufactured 10,000 Tamm Udder Supports last year.

The "barnyard brown"-colored bras now cost $42 and come in four sizes: small (900-1,100 pound cow); medium (1,100-1,600 pounds); and large (more than 1,600 pounds). Extra large is available for $44.

"Farmers don't find them funny," Dorothy said.

The bras have three advantages over the hang-free look. First, they make cows comfortable and induce them to give more milk. Secondly, the bras keep cows from stepping on their sagging udders.

Finally, Dorothy concluded, "Udders can get chilled, hard and congested in the winter months. A Tamm Support keeps it warm."

Dorothy Rice is earning a decent living from her father's idea. To her, a bra-wearing cow is not so udderly ridiculous.

BRAS FOR COWS MAY SEEM A LITTLE ODD. BUT NOT TO FARMERS AND COWS

Seal Beach City Council ends pact for developing 9 acres

By Bob Sanders
Staff Writer

An agreement under which a builder was to develop nine acres of land in Seal Beach has expired, but the controversy over the status of the land has not.

In a move that surprised almost everybody, the City Council, sitting as the city's Redevelopment Agency, voted 3 to 2 last Monday not to renew a three-year-old agreement with Seal Beach Associates, headed by developer William Dayson. The agreement lapsed Thursday.

After the vote the agency instructed the city staff to investigate "all other possibilities" for development of the area. Such a wide-ranging directive is not likely to lead to an immediate solution.

Dawson says he has spent some $75,000 on plans to develop the nine-acre parcel.

Under the agreement the property, which is located on the western boundary of the city and zoned for residential, commercial and park development, would have contained a three-acre park and a six acres of residential and commercial development.

The nearby Seal Beach Trailer Park would have been upgraded, and approximately 40 townhouse-type homes were to be built.

Councilmen Ronald Kredell and Frank Lazlo, who is the agency chairman, were expected to vote against the renewal. The surprise came when the newest member of the council, Proctor Weir, who represents the Leisure World area, joined them.

Mayor Tom Blackman made the motion to renew the agreement, and Councilman Russell Gray seconded the motion, which failed 2 to 3.

Kredell and Lazlo had expressed disapproval of the agreement and indicated they wanted the entire area developed as a park.

However, Weir, former executive director of the city's Chamber of Commerce, told the council he favored a convention center for the area to attract more commercial and tourist activity to the city.

Mayor Blackman opposed the park suggestion on grounds that taxpayers should not be required to finance a park that only the Old Town residents and visitors would use.

Bradley to ask LA City Council to fire Izumi

Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley, who requested the resignation of Harbor Commissioner George Izumi — who said he would not voluntarily step down — will ask the City Council to remove him from the five-member port governing board, according to a mayor's aide.

Masamori Kojima, executive assistant to the mayor, said the council will be asked "soon" to act on the request.

Kojima declined to give a reason for the mayor's action but said when the matter goes to the council an explanation will be given.

Izumi whose five-year term will expire in August 1980, said he was first asked in mid-June to tender his resignation.

LBCC recreation sign-ups Thursday

Registration for the second of three Long Beach City College summer recreation sessions is scheduled Thursday at the recreation office in the men's gymnasium on the Liberal Arts Campus, 4901 E. Carson St.

A college spokeswoman said registration numbers may be picked up beginning at 8 a.m. and registration, by the numbers, will begin at 4:30 p.m.

She said the session will feature a variety of activities for children and adults, with classes from 7 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. weekdays.

The spokeswoman said the program includes 90 classes in the swimming categories of lifesaving, diving, water ballet, skin diving and competitive training.

Other scheduled courses cover archery, badminton, basketball, coed softball, Frisbee, golf, gymnastics, physical fitness, racquetball, sailing, tennis, volleyball and weight training.

The spokeswoman added that the courses, most of which are free, are open only to residents of the Long Beach Community College District.

Swimming pool charges are 25 cents for children and 50 cents for adults, with discount books available. There is a $10 fee for the sailing course.

She said most of the recreation classes will meet on the Liberal Arts Campus, while a few will be scheduled at the Pacific Coast Campus, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

Brochures listing schedules may be obtained from the college recreation office in person or by telephoning 420-4248.

Registration for the third recreation session, July 27-Aug. 12, will take place July 28.

Shipwreck delays terminal

By Bob Andrew
Staff Writer

Coastal Commission approval of a proposed cargo-container terminal in Los Angeles Harbor has been delayed while commissioners evaluate the historic value of a shipwreck at the site and the need for a buffer zone between the terminal and Cabrillo Beach.

South Coast Regional Commissioner Rimmon Fay moved for the continuance, partly because he wanted an investigation of the wreck at the Berth 206 site.

Patrick Mays, a Los Angeles deputy city attorney, testified that a diver had examined the wreck on Wednesday and determined that it was of post-World War II vintage and of no significance.

However, Larry Jack Pearson of the Los Angeles Maritime History Museum asked that a full-scale, cultural resource survey be made of the area before dredge and fill operations are permitted.

Pearson described the area as "archeologically sensitive" and made reference to a study, soon to be ready for publication, by Dr. Lois Wyman of Long Beach State University.

The South Coast Regional Commission of the California Coastal Zone Commission voted Thursday to continue the hearing on a permit to construct the terminal.

The Port of Los Angeles proposes to build the $4.2-million terminal at Berth 206 adjacent to the Matson Container Terminal by dredging portions of the Cerritos Channel to a depth of 45 feet and using the dredged material as the base for the 616-foot-by-70-foot concrete wharf.

The commission's staff had recommended approval of the project provided that a 1.5-acre giant kelp bed be developed to offset the loss of clam beds in the area to be filled, that recreational boat slips removed from a small marina be restored elsewhere, and that steps be taken to protect sunken wrecks of historic significance.

If the kelp bed cannot be established, the staff recommended, a salt marsh area should be provided north of the Cabrillo Beach boat ramp as an alternative.

In addition to the issue of the wreck, Fay argued for more time to evaluate the necessity of an adequate buffer area between the salt marsh and Cabrillo Beach to the south and the Sea Scout base to the north.

Another reason he cited for the continuance was to allow staff time to research legal aspects of the permit process for the case. The legal dispute centered over whether the project should fall under Chapter 8 of the state coastal zone law, which allows more ease of development in specified harbors, or under Chapter 3, which sets stricter standards.

ABC budget calls for tax rate increase

Tucker said the district could find itself in the position of having set a tax rate it won't need if one of two pending school finance bills is signed into law.

He estimated that either of the bills could trim the district's tax rate between 30 and 50 cents.

In the meantime, the board is scheduled to receive a staff report July 18 on the district's own efforts to cut spending. Adoption of the final budget is expected following a public hearing Aug. 1.

Board members, however, have said they will consider calling another public hearing to change the budget — and lower the tax rate — in late August or early September if one of the school finance bills is approved by the Legislature.

Cleavers sue Calif. battles for 'piece of the rock' for $4 million

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Charging they were the target of a conspiracy, former Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver and his wife, Kathleen, filed a $4.5-million damage suit Friday against a host of former government officials.

The civil rights action names as defendants former Special FBI Agent in Charge Charles Bates, the estate of the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, two FBI agents, former U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and Richard Kleindienst, former CIA Director Richard Helms and former Postmaster General Winton Blount.

The suit alleges the defendants conspired over the past decade with other state, federal and local law enforcement officials to deprive the Cleavers of their civil rights.

The Cleavers told a news conference that the conspiracy was intended to destroy them politically and socially. Cleaver said it involved "the perversion, twisting and deforming of these law enforcement agencies."

"I have to credit the destruction of the Black Panther Party to the FBI and CIA," he said, "and in cahoots also were local law enforcement agencies."

According to the suit, the conspiracy strove to break up the Black Panthers through a false letter writing campaign.

It alleges "literally scores of letters" were written anonymously or under pen names in the early 1970s by the defendants and sent to party members and newspapers "containing statements designed and intended to create dissension within the Black Panther Party and to cause a split within the party and the expulsion of Eldridge Cleaver from the party."

The suit said the conspiracy also sought to block Cleaver's 1968 bid for the U.S. presidency through "force, intimidation and threat" and also interfered with his wife's congressional campaign.

The complaint also alleges Cleaver's right to a fair trial was jeopardized by the conspiracy. He is charged with three counts of attempted murder and three counts of assault stemming from a 1968 shootout between Oakland police and Black Panther members.

Cleaver jumped bail in 1968. He voluntarily returned to the United States in November 1975 after living in Algeria and France. He is free on $100,000 bail.

The suit said the defendants "acted with malice, hatred, ill-will and spite toward the plaintiffs."

According to the suit, the FBI began an intelligence operation named COINTELPRO designed to "crush, discredit, disrupt, harass, annoy, intimidate and otherwise hinder, obstruct and destroy the Black Panther Party and its members."

A tug-of-war between the federal government, the State of California and a trio of miners over control of an iron meteorite will continue for at least another month.

A decision on the fate of the meteorite was postponed Friday to allow more Southern California visitors to see and touch the porous metal rock as it is towed from museum to museum in cities in the area.

The 3½-ton rock plunged to earth hundreds of years ago and lay undisturbed in the desolate Southern California desert until 1975. Three miners discovered the iron rock in the Old Woman Mountains (about 120 miles from Los Angeles), notified the Smithsonian Institution and the grab game began.

The miners, who found the meteorite while searching for a lost Spanish gold mine, wanted to be compensated for their work. They thought $1 million would be fair. The Smithsonian said the meteorite was found on federal property and thereby belonged to the federal government; besides, didn't big meteorites always go to Washington?

UCLA professor John Wesson, a meteorite expert buter over other California finds going to the Smithsonian, wanted Old Woman meteorite to stay in Southern California. Preferably at UCLA, he said.

The geology professor says as far as scientific investigations are concerned, just a few minute slices off the three-by-four-foot rock would be enough to satisfy all parties. The real question is where to display the bulk of the meteorite.

Wesson and others who wanted California to get more than just a piece of the rock called the Bureau of Land Management's decision to allow the rock to stay here until at least July 21 "a victory in the first skirmish, a victory in a battle."

The BLM was in charge of retrieving the meteorite from Old Woman Mountain and has been responsible for its disposition, at least while it's in California.

Wesson said he and other scientists interested in seeing the meteorite stay in California had pressured California congressmen and senators into suggesting to the Smithsonian that the curators reconsider their claim on the meteorite.

The meteorite will travel to the San Bernardino County Museum where it will be displayed for a week, then to Los Angeles for another week and then it will return to Riverside, where it is now, a BLM spokesman said.

By then, Wesson and others hope they will have persuaded the Smithsonian to allow Old Woman to stay in California.

Judge orders no gag in Delia case

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Pretrial proceedings in the Ellen Delia murder case will be open to the press and public, a Superior Court judge ruled Friday.

Judge Michael Virga held that to exclude reporters and the public would constitute "prior restraint" without knowing what facts might be revealed.

The ruling came despite an earlier warning from Sacramento Public Defender Kenneth Wells that it would cause a sensation "up and down the state" if he had to reveal his case in open court.

Attorneys for the California Newspaper Publishers Association and several newspapers intervened in the case, asking that the hearing be left open.

It was a clear case of monkey business Friday, as a foot-tall female chimpanzee, wearing a white baby's diaper, dove into the open window of a passing car in Van Nuys.

The unidentified motorist, not sure of what to do with his new companion, called for assistance.

The owner of the friendly, year-old chimp told Animal Control officers that the chimp simply opened the door of the house and decided to take a stroll, before jumping into the passing car not far from her home.

TUNED WITH THE MOST MODERN ULTRAVIOLET DIAGNOSTIC EQUIP-MENT AND MEETS ALL FEDERAL and STATE STANDARDS

FREE 10 DAY TRIAL EXCHANGE

Pick any used car and drive it 10 days. Make sure it is the car you want. If you don't like the car for any reason, bring it back and exchange it for any other car of equal value or receive full credit toward the purchase of a later model car or even a new car. You won't lose a dime.

Ask About Our Preferred Used Car Warranty

1 YEAR
12,000
MILES

If you purchase a used car and our preferred warranty, you get a one year, or 12,000 mile warranty on the entire power train including engine, transmission, differential, etc. If anything goes wrong with the power train, return the car to the Worthington store you purchased it at.
We'll fix it and it doesn't cost you one dime.

All cars subject to prior sale

EVERY USED CAR WE SELL
HAS BEEN SAFETY CHECKED
